Jets Headed Back To Thule

...BOLSTERS ARCTIC DEFENSE

Washington (AP) — The Air Force decided Thursday to send jet fighters back to the big Arctic base at Thule, Greenland, from which it removed all interceptors only 4 months ago.

The 33rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron, equipped with F102s and now at England Air Force Base, La. will be sent to the Greenland airdrome in August, a brief announcement said.

The 327th Squadron was demobilized and moved out of Thule last March.

Actually, less than a full squadron will go to Thule, although the unit carries a squadron designation. The new force will consist of a dozen F102s and 230 men. This is about half a squadron.

"The move is part of the redevelopment of air defense units to more effectively utilize manned interceptors," the announcement said.

Master Plan Reviewed

When asked why such redeployment to Thule was deemed necessary now, but not necessary a few months ago, a spokesman replied this was a part of a review of the nation's master defense plan.

Recently, this review resulted in the decision to close down the huge Ladd Air Force base near Fairbanks, Alaska, concentrating fighter strength at Elmendorf Air Force base, near Anchorage.

The sudden about-face in plans for Thule may have been the result of vigorous protests against the removal of fighters made by Gen. Laurence Kuter, chief of the North American Defense Command.

The interceptors at Thule would be useful primarily in checking on indications of approaching enemy planes picked up by radar from the eastern extension of the Distant Early Warning Line (DEW Line) which reaches the Arctic portion of the continent from Alaska.

No Bombers

Thule, built under a defense agreement with Denmark, was designed originally as a base for strategic bombers, with fighters also there for protection. However, no bombers now are based at Thule.

Thule, in recent months has been used principally as a receiving point for equipment arriving for the building of the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System (BMEWS).

About 5,000 men are stationed at Thule.

MEXICO BACKS CUBAN PEOPLE

...High Spokesman Tells Solons

Mexico City (AP) — A high spokesman for Mexico's dominant political party declared Thursday Mexico stands with the Cuban people in the growing conflict between the Castro government and the United States.

Emilio Sanchez Piedras, chairman of the Permanent Commission of Congress, drew enthusiastic cheers in a speech before senators and deputies at an extraordinary congressional meeting called to explain the policies of the government of President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

Saying he was speaking for the Party of Revolutionary Institutions (PRI), which has an overwhelming majority in Congress, Sanchez Piedras chose his words carefully. He made no direct reference to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Jabs At United States

"In this critical moment for the sister republic of Cuba," he said, "when it appears that our northern neighbor is closing the doors of its friendship and understanding in the face of the yearnings of the Cuban people to live in liberty and economic independence, we, the representatives of the people of Mexico, repeat to the Cuban people our same attitude of solidarity and we wish to tell them that we are certain that their right to live in social justice and economic liberty will have to prevail in this continent in the hope of peace and reciprocal friendship."

There was no immediate comment from the Mexican presidency on Sanchez Piedras' declaration. But political quarters said under Mexico's political system it seemed unlikely that he could have made a statement of such import without prior consultation with top officials of the government.

Elects President

The official party, the PRI, of which Sanchez Piedras is the spokesmen in Congress, not only elects the President of the country but normally is responsive to his policies once he is in office.

Sources close to the President said they doubted that Lopez Mateos would have any statement to make on Sanchez Piedras' remarks. They felt the declaration represented only the view of a spokesman for the legislative branch and did not commit the government.

While the party spokesman limited his words to an expression of solidarity for the Cuban people without referring directly to Castro, it seemed certain to provoke concern, perhaps even alarm, on the part of the U.S. government.

It was considered likely that the U.S. Embassy would ask the Foreign Ministry to what extent the deputy's declaration reflects the official policy of the government.

Mexico was the birthplace of Castro's Cuban revolution against the Batista regime—the place whence he sailed to the eastern Cuban mountain area in 1956 with his small band.

A Wealthy Man

Sanchez Piedras, about 45, comes from the state of Tlaxcala where he inherited large land holdings from his father. His fellow deputies in Congress consider him a wealthy man.

Only Thursday morning, in the presence of Lopez Mateos, more praise was bestowed on the United States for its contribution to Mexico's welfare than had been heard in any similar ceremony here in hears.

But returning from that ceremony, many found the streets of downtown Mexico City blocked by a vast demonstration of leftist school teachers, many carrying anti-U.S. banners. The demonstration involves a union squabble and the reason for the anti-American display was not immediately explained.

...DO GHOSTS TIPTOE AMONG CABIN SHADOWS?

Shadows Play Tag With Cabin 'Ghosts'

By Dean Terrill
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — You can see the night-prowling ghosts of old Daniel Freeman and his homesteading neighbors, or hear the quiet mocassins of Indians who also roamed the area a century ago.

All it takes is a little imagination — and that comes easily as you face up to weird shadows on the newly-lighted log cabin at Homestead National Monument.

Bright spotlights on the bleached logs and bone-white chinking bring all sorts of ghoulish visions to night tourists visiting the 93-year-old Palmer-Epard cabin.

"It even gave me an eerie feeling when we first turned on the spots," confessed Supt. Warren D. Hotchkiss. "You can see all sorts of long shadows inside the cabin door."

The indoor shadows might not be too unlike those of candlelight, and many were the candles made by Mrs. Freeman with a candle molder included in a new monument display. Other Freeman family articles are several photographs and a pair of spectacles belonging to the old homesteader himself.

Another display attracting much interest is that of a collection of irons, including a cold-roller mangle brought to this area by Russian Mennonites. Pioneer toys are also on exhibit.

The night showing of the cabin is expected to boost the total of visitors even beyond the 15,000 of last year, Hotchkiss said. He and historian Don Warman are getting a summer assist from a York teacher and experienced Park Ranger, George Hlavinka.

Looking ahead to the start of construction next year on a permanent museum, two National Park museum specialists are spending a month at the site helping prepare new exhibits.

To be built as part of the national Mission 66 development program, the museum is scheduled for completion by the Centennial date of the Homestead Act, May 20, 1962. More than 1,600 items already have been donated for display.

The National Park Service administers 180 units throughout the country, the Beatrice monument being one of 125 which are historical or archeological.

Curvaceous Utah Lovely Snares Miss USA Title

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — Linda Bement, a curvaceous, black-haired beauty from Salt Lake City Thursday night became Miss USA of 1960.

Judges selected the 18-year-old Utah representative over 14 other semifinalists, including the first Negro ever to compete for the crown.

Linda closed her eyes as if in silent prayer, moments before winning. Tears of joy showed on her face as she beamed at the audience in Miami Beach convention hall.

She represents the United States starting Friday in two-day competition for the Miss Universe crown, now held by Akiko Kojima of Japan. Girls from 43 other nations seek the worldwide title. The winner will be named Saturday night.

Opportunities

Miss USA, a fair skinned 5-foot 6-inch entry, succeeded Terry Huntington of Mt. Shasta, Calif., who estimated that winning the crown was worth $15,000 to her in job opportunities. Terry placed the shimmering crown of 1,200 pearls on the head of Linda and gave her the jewel-decked gold sceptor.

The 120-pound winner receives $1,000, a golf trophy, wardrobe and other gifts from the pageant.

First runnerup was Mary Rodites, 5-foot 7-inch brunette from Port Jefferson, N. Y.

Next came Alabama's entry, Margaret Jo Gordon of Birmingham. Fourth place went to Lyndia Ann Tarleton, a blonde from Wingate, N. C. The final runnerup was Florida's Nancy Wakefield, a blonde from Winter Haven.

Favorite

The winner, whose measurements are 37-23-36, was a crowd favorite from the start of competition. She drew the top round of applause from 6,000 spectators and was followed closely by the Florida, and New York and Ohio entries.

Corrine Huff of Youngstown, Ohio, became the first Negro to compete.

All 43 American girls and 40 of the 42 foreign Miss Universe delegates appeared on stage at the start of the program. Maria Teresa Motta Cardosa, Miss Portugal, and Mary Quiros Delgarto, Miss Venezuela, remained at their hotels. The Venezuelan girl had a touch of tonsilitis and Maria Teresa had an upset stomach.

Castro Rallies Cubans

Havana (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro rallied his supporters Thursday for a continuing battle against what he called the insane and stupid action of President Eisenhower in slicing Cuba's sugar quota.

He delayed, at least for the time being, his threat to seize all property of U.S. holders "down to the nails in their shoes."

And it was disclosed that Cuba had turned to the United States this week for needed supplies of corn for its poultry industry and for rice to bolster its food supply.

Harsh Words

In his first public statement after the Eisenhower action, Castro limited himself to harsh words about Washington, and boasted that Cuba, with the people and right on its side, (sic) "really stronger than the oligarchy of the United States."

He announced he will make another television speech Friday night and appear Sunday before a mass meeting of his confederation of Cuban workers expected to draw a million and a half of his faithful. The appearances are expected to be climaxed by some new move against American property, probably Sunday.

Slightly warmer temperatures with increasing southerly winds were forecast for Nebraska through Friday night.

Widely scattered thundershowers were expected to visit the state Friday afternoon.

Warmer temperatures are in store with highs in the 80's.

Music Gets Too Hot To Handle

The music got so hot late Thursday in Jim's Tavern at 223 No. 9th that firemen had to be called.

An electric connection in the juke box flared up. The alarm was given the fire department.

Fire trucks and engines and an aerial ladder truck arrived on the scene.

A couple squirts from a foam canister and the danger was over.

Jack's Round One Sweep Said Halted

Los Angeles (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) was still the man to beat for the Democratic Presidential nomination Thursday night, but campaign camps of the challengers claimed they have staved off a first ballot Kennedy sweep.

Pulling the fuse out of a first-round Kennedy blitz is the immediate goal in the preliminary battling roaring around the Democratic national convention which opens Monday. Kennedy rivals said they have made it by shoring up the line of favorite sons.

One of the top lieutenants of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson said campaign headquarters of the Texas senator has positive assurances that Govs. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, George Docking of Kansas and Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa will stand fast as favorite sons on the first roll call. This was the word from Robert G. Baker, secretary to the Democratic majority leader in the U.S. Senate.

New Jersey has 41 votes in the convention, Kansas 21 and Iowa 26.

California

Kennedy supporters were counting on a major lift from another favorite son, Gov. Edmund G. Brown, and his 81-vote California delegation.

Backers of some of the other contenders conceded this was likely — perhaps before the convention curtain rolls up.

Regardless of what Brown does, they say, Kennedy has been cut off from a first ballot victory. And their contention is that if they can stop the Massachusetts Senator on the first ballot, they can stop him, period.

Wishful

Kennedy people were interpreting this line of reasoning as doused liberally with elements of wishful thinking. Their man still is heading into the convention with more solid support than Johnson, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri or Adlai E. Stevenson.

In spite of all the maneuvering, 4 days before the convention kickoff there still had been no major important development that could nail down the party nomination. And no formal coalition had been organized to snatch the party prize out of Kennedy's reach.

But the pre-convention pace was stepping up, and tugging and hauling over attempts to pound together a civil rights platform had some of the makings of a traditional Democratic feud that sometimes rips the party apart.

Carpenter Pops Up In Bewildering 'Draft Rockefeller' State Movement

By United Press International

The name of Terry Carpenter was brought into a "Draft Rockefeller" movement in Nebraska Thursday.

Carpenter was identified by a Californian as the temporary chairman of a Nebraska committee pushing a draft movement for New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller as the GOP nominee for president.

Dave Hunter, who said he was a public relations man for San Francisco attorney William M. Brinton, said that the Nebraska chairman was David K. Martin of Hastings, but that Martin had named Carpenter, of Scottsbluff, as the temporary chairman during Martin's absence on a one-month European vacation.

Brinton is directing an attempt to draft Rockefeller.

Carpenter told The Star from Los Angeles that he will "do what I can in my small way to promote Gov. Rockefeller's candidacy."

The state senator noted that it would be "a waste of time" to try to persuade Nebraska delegates to support the governor.

'In His Pocket'

Vice President Richard Nixon, he said, has the Nebraska delegation "in his pocket."

Carpenter said he would take "an active part" in Rockefeller's campaign if he is nominated at the GOP convention.

The start of the Nebraska "Draft Rockefeller" campaign was announced in an advertisement in the Omaha World-Herald, one of 30 major newspapers across the country in which Brinton kicked off his campaign.

The ad caused bewilderment in Hastings. It listed young Martin as the chairman of the Nebraska movement, and gave as a mailing address the offices of attorneys Fred Irons and James Conway in Hastings.

Irons is a firm Nixon supporter and also supports Interior Secretary Fred Seaton, whose hometown is Hastings, for the GOP vice presidential nomination. Irons and Conway said they knew nothing of the ad, or of the Rockefeller draft, and said they did not give permission to use their office address.

Martin Arranged

Hunter said he understood that Martin had arranged with the attorneys to use the address.

Carpenter made a well publicized nomination of "Joe Smith" at the 1956 GOP National Convention after Seaton thwarted Carpenter's plans to nominate him for vice president.

Crew Drags Lake; Plane Still Missing

North Platte (AP)—A state Game Commission crew from North Platte dragged the west half of Seversen lake near Whitman Thursday seeking traces of a lost airplane. Nothing was found.

The crew, directed by Paul Todd of North Platte, will drag the deeper eastern half of the lake Friday.

The search began after two ranch youths said that on either June 17 or 18 while they were stringing fence wire they had seen a white object in the lake.

Later they heard that a search was being conducted in Nebraska south of the Platte River for a missing 5-passenger plane lost in mid-June on a flight from Longview, Wash., to Kansas City.

They reported to officials and the search of the mile long and half mile lake was set up.

Board Reduces Rail Valuations

...$832,000 CUT OKAYED

By Betty Person

The State Board of Equalization Thursday set the assessed value of 6 railroads doing business in Nebraska at $99,453,685 for 1960, a reduction of $832,962 under the final assessment for the properties last year.

The board set the franchise assessments on public service companies at $3,445,178 this year, compared with $3,168,460 in 1959, an increase of $276,718.

In sharp contrast to the stormy Board of Equalization meetings last year, Thursday's session was calm with all decisions arrived at unanimously by the 4 board members present.

Members are Gov. Ralph Brooks, State Auditor Ray C. Johnson, Secretary of State Frank Marsh, State Treasurer Richard Larsen, and State Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson.

Johnson, who is attending a national budget conference at Salem, Oregon, was not present at the meeting.

In arriving at the assessment for the railroads, Gov. Brooks noted that the reduction was the result of the Nebraska Supreme Court decision on railroad assessments.

Three railroads contested the board's 1959 assessments, appealed to the Supreme Court and won substantial reductions in their assessments.

Formula Modified

The court kicked out part of the formula which the board had used for several years in determining railroad values.

Under the formula approved by the court, the 1960 assessment resulted in a reduction for all but two railroads: Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific.

The formula includes 3 factors: the 5-year average market value of a railroad's stocks and bonds, 5-year average earnings capitalized at 6%, and the railroad's operating properties.

A comparison of the 1960 assessments and final 1959 assessments as approved by the courts:

	1960	1959	Chg
Union Pacific	$50,818,525	$50,616,899	$201,626 +
Burlington	38,314,651	38,621,805	307,154 —
Chi. North Western	5,108,263	5,184,609	76,346 —
Missouri Pacific	2,176,832	2,112,835	64,017 +
Rock Island	1,969,805	2,524,337	554,732 —
Ill. Central	66,189	226,362	160,173 —
Totals	$99,453,885	$99,286,847	$832,962 —

A 7th railroad has figured in assessments in recent years—the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha line, a subsidiary of Chicago North Western—but the parent company has now absorbed it.

The franchise assessments, levied against public service companies for the right to do business in Nebraska, did not result in drastic changes against any one firm.

The comparative franchise totals in each category for 1960 and 1959 are:

	1960	1959
Electric Cos. (2)	$ 9,023	$ 8,910
Electric memberships (6)	4,800	4,800
Railway Express Cos. (1)	36,000	36,000
Telegraph Cos. (1)	21,863	17,865
Gas Cos. (3)	145,235	91,790
Bus Cos.	63,264	41,190
Pipelines (24)	922,640	901,800
Telephone Cos. (140)	2,242,353	2,066,105
Totals	$3,445,178	$3,168,460

Assessments on the many telephone companies did not change for those doing business in Nebraska last year.

The total increase came from the addition of some new companies.

Under the telephone companies are included these franchise assessments: Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co., $428,160; Northwestern Bell, $1,104,270; United Telephone Co. of the West, $46,680; General Telephone Co. of Nebraska, $53,765, and American Telephone & Telegraph, $292,310.

Under the bus company franchises, Lincoln City Lines was increased from $10,000 last year to $18,342 this year.

Under gas companies, the Central Electric and Gas Co. of Lincoln increased from $62,355 last year, to $86,959 this year.

The increase for the Lincoln firm was due chiefly to an error in the company's favor last year, the tax commissioner's office said.

Major pipelines received no increase over last year's franchise assessment, but many of the smaller lines received a slight increase.

Bishop and Mrs. Copeland Arrive in Lincoln

New Methodist Bishop Arrives To Take Helm

By Roger Wait

The youngest bishop in the history of Nebraska Methodism arrived in Lincoln Thursday to get acquainted with the state he will serve.

The Rev. Dr. Kenneth W. Copeland, 48, was favorably impressed with the state and its capital city.

"Nebraska is an aggressive and progressive state and Lincoln is a beautiful city," he said.

Bishop Copeland will preach Sunday at the 11 a.m. services of St. Paul Methodist Church.

Thus far, the bishop added, "We have encountered a warm and friendly atmosphere."

Mrs. Copeland Pleased

To her husband's impressions, Mrs. Copeland, a stately woman of gracious bearing, added her enthusiasm for Nebraska, especially the current weather.

Dr. Copeland was elected bishop of Nebraska June 24 at the Methodist South Central Jurisdictional Conference in San Antonio, Tex.

He was consecrated June 26 in Travis Park Methodist Church in San Antonio, the church he was pastor of for 11 years.

He is believed to be the first bishop consecrated at the altar of his own church.

'Much Like Lincoln'

Travis Park Church, he said, is much like Lincoln's St. Paul Church. Though both are located downtown in their cities, they serve their entire metropolitan areas.

Dr. Copeland has also served pastorates in Wichita Falls and Haskell, Tex., and Stillwater, Okla.

"We are both looking forward eagerly to association with the smaller and middle-size churches out over the state," the bishop said.

His wife, a daughter of the Lone Star State, echoed her husband's sentiments.

'Not Easy Job'

"We don't think it'll be an easy job," she observed, but "it offers a real challenge, fresh and new and invigorating."

Since marriage, Mrs. Copeland said, her duties have been her family and "helping him to be the minister he's wanted to be."

The bishop said his wife "is a symbol of something intangible" and will work closely with the wives of Nebraska pastors and the distaff side of their congregations.

The Copelands will go back to Texas next week to prepare to move to Nebraska.

They have two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Ard, Jr., wife of a Dallas veterinarian, and Mrs. Preston H. Dial Jr., wife of a San Antonio attorney.

OAS Action Could Help Curb Castro

Washington (AP)—U.S. strategists Thursday looked for joint action by the Organization of American States as a further step toward curbing Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

A multi-nation move in concert with other Latin states is greatly desired by U.S. diplomats. Their hopes rose with prospects that the OAS will vote Friday to hold a meeting, within the next few weeks, of the foreign ministers of the 21 OAS nations.

The OAS is one of several—it often is called the most successful — of several regional organizations formed under the United Nations.

Meanwhile Washington awaited with relative calm expected retaliation by Castro for President Eisenhower's order knocking out virtually all U.S. purchases of sugar from Cuba for the rest of this year.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson in effect told American housewives not to worry. At a news conference Benson foresaw neither a sugar shortage nor a rise in prices resulting from Eisenhower's order.

Cuba Rejects Protests Over 'Oil' Seizures

Havana (AP) — Cuba Thursday rejected as "false, hypocritical and malevolent" a U.S. protest against seizure of the American-owned Esso and Texaco oil refineries.

Britain's protest against the seizure of the British-Dutch Shell refinery also was rejected.

In seperate notes to Ambassadors Philip Bonsal of the United States and Stanley Fordham of Britain, the Cuban foreign ministry defended the takeover as legal.

The plants were taken over after officials refused to process Soviet crude oil. The companies said they could not desert their traditional sources of suply in Venuezuela.

Sweet Intentions Turn Sour For Jailbirds' Buddy

A 34-year-old Lincoln laborer was doing a good deed, he thought. Police took the opposite view.

The laborer, police said, was trying to stuff candy through a window to his buddies in the city jail's bullpen.

Officers told him not to. The man was jailed—in a private cell.

Russian Torpedo Came After Tiny Ray Of Hope

...Censored Testimony Discloses

Washington (AP) — Censored testimony made public Thursday night indicated Russia torpedoed the disarmament talks at Geneva just as a tiny ray of hope for progress toward agreement seemed visible.

The testimony taken by the Senate Disarmament Study Subcommittee, also disclosed some American suspicion that the Soviet Union may be conducting secret nuclear weapons tests.

These two points highlighted information given behind closed doors on June 10 by Philip F. Farley, the state department's disarmament specialist, and John Irwin, assistant secretary of defense for security affairs.

Pre Walkout

The subcommittee hearing was held 17 days before a Russian walkout halted the Geneva talks on June 27.

The Communist walkout came after the Reds had injected into the Geneva talks a new disarmament proposal which Farley told the Senators contained some general provisions he believed were hopeful.

"I think," Farley said, "that the Soviet reasons for including more general provisions about control are partly ones that should be welcomed.

Validity

"I think they recognize the validity of our criticism in the past and, to the extent that they recognize that an attempt to accommodae them, it does begin to move as closer to the possibility of some day finding agreement on it."

Farley made clear, however, he believed that nothing in the Soviet proposals showed any withdrawal from the Soviet resistance to American demands for controls or safeguards.

The suspicions about possible secret nuclear testing came out in a discussion of a published report that John A. McCone, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, "is convinced that the Soviets are already holding secret tests."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn), the subcommittee chairman, told both witnesses this statement had been published by columnist Joseph Alsop.

New Riots Shove Italy Near War

Rome (AP) — Police machine-guns chattered and 5 persons died Thursday in the continuing Communist-led rioting that threatens to plunge Italy into civil war.

Premier Fernando Tambroni charged Thursday night the disorders and accompanying strikes sweeping the country are part of an international communist plot aimed at toppling his pro-Western government and subverting democracy around the world.

Word of the new violence and death in the Red stronghold city of Reggio Emilia in northern Italy touched off fresh tumult and fist fights here in Italy's capital.

In addition to the 5 fatalities, at least 21 persons were wounded in Reggio Emilia. The outbreaks there appeared to be the worst in two weeks of Red-led disturbances in various places that now have claimed 7 lives. More than 500 demonstrators and 200 police have been injured.

Smaller riots were reported during the day in Parma, Modena and Naples.

The big Red-tinged Confederation of Italian Labor called a 10-hour general strike for Friday, beginning at 2 p.m., to protest the Reggio Emilia killings.

Dr. McLean Is New Child Center Head

Dr. Dougald McLean has been named executive director of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Child Guidance Center, according to William Hastings, center board president.

Dr. McLean

McLean suceeds Stanley Good who has accepted a similar position in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Medical director of the center since January, 1959, Dr. McLean received his doctor of Medicine degree from Creighton University Medical School and his psychiatric training at the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute.

Mary Jane Young was appointed assistant to the director. Miss Young will perform the administrative functions to keep Dr. McLean's time free for psychiatric diagnosis and treatment and direction of staff activities, Hastings said.

Another addition to the staff is Dr. Max Magnussen of Cincinnati O., who will work with emotionally disturbed children and their parents.

Dr. Magnussen has a doctorate in clinical psychology from the University of Kentucky.

Mrs. Mollie Dittenber, 50, of 3241 No. 10th, suffered an injured shoulder in a two-car traffic accident at 10th and Nelson Thursday.

She was listed in good condition early Friday at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Police said Mrs. Dittenber's car was in collision with one driven by Harold H. Weeks, 52, of 4121 No. 14th.

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the famed Express.

The first re-run rider will leave St. Joseph, Mo., July 19. An express rider will enter Nebraska on July 20, southeast of Endicott at the Rock Creek station. A rider will leave the state, July 22, at Horse Creek, near Lyman. The last leg of the re-run will end in Sacramento, Calif., July 28.

Various saddle clubs along the route of the re-run will furnish riders.

A calendar of Nebraska events for the re-run celebration includes:

July 20-26 — Gothenburg Pony Express Centennial.

July 22-25—Series of commemorative events at the Scottsbluff National Monument at Gering.

July 27 — Eastbound rider starting from Sacramento, passes Ft. Kearny.

Harvesting Moves Ahead At Slow Pace

Wheat harvest was in motion Thursday afternoon in southeastern Nebraska but at a slow pace, with farmers complaining due to "poor harvesting weather."

Elevators were reporting the effects of weeds in the wheat with a slight increase in moisture content attributed to the weather and green weed particles in the grain.

It was warm, windy weather that many sections of the state from Orleans to North Platte said they would need for the next couple days to get harvest going in their areas.

About 80% of the wheat was ready for cutting in the McCook area with commercial combine operators coming into the area but being hampered by damp weather.

Equity Union Grain Co. of Lincoln reported having received 15 carloads of new wheat with most of it under 13% moisture.

Bixby, Delehant Named Officers

Hastings (AP)—The new commander of the Nebraska Veterans of World War I Thursday announced the appointment of Harry Bixby of Hastings as adjutant and James Delehant of Lincoln as chief of staff.

Paul Beha, O'Neill, and Leo Schumacher, Minatare, were named deputies, Leonard Schafer, Lincoln, historian and L. R. Eby, Lincoln, legislative chairman.

The commander, Eugene Peetzke, Hastings, was elected at the group's recent Omaha convention.

May Strike Idleness Lowest Since War

Washington (AP)—All measures of strike activity increased slightly in May over April levels, but were lower than in May, 1959, the Labor Department reported.

It added that strike idleness in May was at the lowest level for that month in the postwar period.

The department also announced that more than 78 million persons worked at some time during 1959, an increase of about 750,000 over 1958.

Beatrice, English Families Plan Daughter 'Trade'

Beatrice — During the next school year, a Beatrice family and an Ascot, England, family plan to "trade" daughters.

Molly White, 17, who will be a senior next year, will live with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cooke in Ascot. The Cookes' daughter, Ailsa, who is just Molly's age, will spend the year with Molly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack White, and attend school at Beatrice High School.

White and Cooke became acquainted through a business relationship. This spring when the Whites visited England the two families cemented a close personal relationship, and made arrangements for their daughters to trade schools for one year.

Fremont Farmer Will Introduce GOP Campaign Song At Chicago

By the Associated Press

The Republicans have gone to the grassroots in Nebraska for a spirited campaign song and singing farmer to introduce it.

Vice President Richard Nixon was the talent scout who discovered the combination.

The song, called "Go Republican," was written by an Omaha radio-television team, Al Lamm and Joe Martin. Jean McCartney of Fremont has been notified he'll introduce it at the GOP national convention in Chicago later this month.

McCartney, despite the commonly feminine spelling of his first name, is a rugged, mellow voiced tenor who threw over a $1,000-a-week income in the entertainment world to return to Nebraska farming and horse-raising.

McCartney, whose singing these days has to be worked in between breaking quarter horses and raising corn, gave the song a lusty rendition at the state GOP state convention in Lincoln at which Nixon was the speaker.

"Afterwards," McCartney recalls, "Nixon got up from the banquet table and came over and shook hands."

"We ought to take this show on the road," declared the vice president.

"The song is kind of a rouser," explains McCartney. "It's a catchy thing, and folks can get right in and join in the singing. That's what Nixon liked."

The Republicans aren't calling it an "official" song. George Murphy, the former actor-dancer who is running the entertainment side of the convention, says no theme song has been chosen.

He was the driver of a pickup truck involved in a collision which killed Mrs. Oscar Anderson of St. Paul, Minn., Tuesday.

The car in which she was riding was in collision with a pickup truck driven by Miller.

Battle For A Birthright

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Hopes of a peaceful settlement of the Algerian problem have dimmed with refusal by the Algerian rebels of negotiation provisions stipulated by France. Through their provisional government channels at Tunis, the rebels have informed France that conditions under which negotiations would be held would place the Algerians in a position worse than that of political prisoners.

Obviously, the thing provoking the provisional government is the insinuation within the framework of negotiation provisions that the rebel forces come to France as members of a defeated movement. This, of course, is not the case and the rebels are seeking stature in compensation for their years of fighting and in protection of their gains. The freedom and independence for Algeria for which they have fought could hardly be gained if they admit in going to negotiate that they have no position of strength. It may seem like a technicality to some but it is the kind of thing on which touchy diplomatic relationships live and die.

Reluctant Rebels

It would be a sad day if the relationship dies in this case for it would probably mean many more years of bloodshed and uneasiness in Algeria. French President Charles de Gaulle lit the fires of hope when he announced a number of alternatives for ending the conflict in this African trouble spot. He offered, at a free and open election, complete freedom of Algeria from France, independence with strong colonial ties with France or continuation of complete French authority in the country.

The French and other Europeans in Algeria favor continuation of French control as a means of economic strength and social and political stability. They are fearful of independence movements which have swept across other parts of Africa and taken with them all remnants of the past social, economic and political order.

The rebel forces, of course, want complete independence and even if they can be coaxed to the negotiating table, there is no assurance that any progress with them can be made. But without negotiations, there is certainly assurance that the turmoil in Algeria will continue. This is a problem which has plagued French leaders for years and has been a substantial drain upon the economy and morale of the nation. The situation for France has been much like the Korean War was for the United States.

It, therefore, behooves the government of France to give additional study to the position taken by the provisional government. If the world has learned anything in the past decade, it should be the fact that power plays and arrogance no longer are the tools with which we are to find peace. It should be clear to all governments that we have entered a new era of human dignity and social welfare. This does not mean, as some would seem to think, that the world has gone soft and all laws and order have been destroyed.

It simply means that people are coming to demand recognition as individuals and as representatives of free and independent societies. It means that sheer numbers and past influence and prestige are not the only determining factors in the settlement of the many problems we will face in the years ahead.

We have come to the point without hardly recognizing it where ideologies are beginning to occupy the most prominent place in the scheme of things. Humanity is beginning to realize that it is born with some purpose and there is something good to be achieved in life. It is no longer satisfied to take things as they are and live with them whether it means poverty and starvation or happiness and contentment.

We have discovered a new set of principles and a new concept of life but we have not yet figured out how to implement them. The more advanced nations of the world know that there are vast segments of humanity who are throwing off the yoke of past oppression and ignorance. There is an anxiety and expectation among the people of these formerly backward areas that is not going to be satisfied by any artificial or superficial means. While they may have extreme difficulty making progress, these people are going to search until they find the answers they are seeking. If this calls for them to fight and die for a cause, this they are willing to do.

Shaking Off Of Chains

It is up to the rest of the world to make this transformation as peaceful and constructive as possible and if the West has anything to do with it, as democratic as possible. In the case of Algeria, France will have to come to the realization that her advanced state of affairs and her position of world influence are of no concern to people who cannot share in the natural advantages of such a position.

Democrats Ponder The Church Vote

LOS ANGELES — During the 1956 Democratic convention in Chicago, Sen. Jack Kennedy's staff circulated a very significant memo to Democratic delegates in an effort to persuade them to nominate Kennedy for vice president instead of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. In retrospect, Jack got the best break of his political career when he lost out to Kefauver for no one could have defeated Eisenhower that year.

However, the memo Kennedy circulated contains information which also affects the outcome of this convention. Actually it raises the Catholic issue, frankly and bluntly, in a way that has never been spelled out in such detail.

Campaigning in West Virginia last spring, Kennedy accused his opponents of injecting the religious issue into the campaign. Real fact is that he himself injected religion into the vice-presidential campaign at Chicago four years before by showing how a Catholic candidate would win an overwhelming number of Catholic voters in key northern cities.

"The voter surveys," said the Kennedy memo distributed privately to 1956 delegates, "all indicate that there is, or can be, such a thing as a 'Catholic vote,' whereby a high proportion of Catholics of all ages, residences, occupations, and economic status vote for a well-known Catholic candidate or a ticket with special Catholic appeal.

"As Lubell has pointed out," the memo continued, referring to political analyst Sam Lubell: " 'Catholic voting strength is currently at its peak, in view of the maturing offspring of the Italians, Poles, Czechs, and other immigrant elements.'

"But the Catholic vote is far more important than its numbers—about one out of every four voters who turn out—because of its concentration in the key states and cities of the North. These are the pivotal states with huge electoral votes . . . the strength of the Catholic vote within these states is considerably increased by the findings of Gallup, Campbell of the University of Michigan ('The Voter Decides'), and others, that Catholics consistently turn out to vote in greater proportion than non-Catholics."

These are the facts about the so-called "Catholic vote" contained in Kennedy's memo which has some Democratic leaders worried sick. They are caught on the horns of this dilemma: if they nominate Kennedy they will lose a heavy part of the South and border states; if they don't nominate Kennedy they'll lose the big industrial cities of the North.

Gooseberry Low In Favor

By MONA B. PARKER

London has its fog, and Los Angeles, its smogs. But we here in Nebraska, says Helen Lough in the Albion News, are definitely victims of "sog" this year. With frequent rains to keep the humidity high, salt shakers won't shake, sugar makes its own lumps and crackers are limp.

Whereupon Mrs. Lough leaped, perspiring, into the job of steaming paper from the walls of the family mansion. She lasted one day, and then turned the job over to a pro.

☆ ☆ ☆

Rain falls every time a cloud appears, Velma Price adds in the Newman Grove Reporter. "It never rained like this with all the rain-making gadgets a few short years ago."

☆ ☆ ☆

The moisture probably is also responsible for a new problem that is plaguing many a community.

"Death To The Skeeters!" declares the Hooper Sentinel. The folks there, tired of being chewed to the bone every time they set foot outside, are taking action to finance a spraying program in order to get some relief.

☆ ☆ ☆

Wet weather has put the double whammy on corn fields and corn growers. It has made it difficult to cultivate corn, and at the same time has promoted the rapid growth of weeds. Along with weeds has come a goodly stand of volunteer corn. So much corn, in fact, in some spots, that one Minden farmer was heard to remark following a survey of his field that he "could cultivate corn either way and have a good stand."

☆ ☆ ☆

A gooseberry seems to be not too highly regarded by anyone. The small puckery fruit is difficult to gather in the first place, not easy to prepare, and takes prodigious amounts of sugar to render edible at all . . .

Mrs. J. W. Tyler who columns for the Peru Pointer deemed the little berries "we had to pick and stem in our youth fit only for a conserve to use as an accompaniment to meat."

She found agreement in another newswoman, Mrs. Lester Eastwood of the Pawnee Republican. "After wading through weeds and fighting heat, chiggers, and thorns, I decided to buy what I wanted or go without."

☆ ☆ ☆

The Cambridge Clarion feels that mulberries, too, have been slighted. With trees loaded this year, no one seems to be doing anything about them. The Clarion asks for recipes making use of the fruit, asserting that women used to make jams, jellies and pies from them.

☆ ☆ ☆

Mrs. Roy Ahrndt of Scribner has found that it is easier said than done, taking baby ducks away from their mothers to raise, especially when one of the cranky birds nests 30 feet back under the porch and "the only way you can get there is to crawl on your hands and knees all the way, and then come face to face with the mad old mother duck."

☆ ☆ ☆

Freak victims of the severe hailstorm that rocked western Nebraska were a large flock of big white pelicans that had apparently sought refuge on a lake near Whitney. Battered to death by the hailstones, 103 of the large birds were found by Farmer Tom Norman. Also destroyed by the elements were other trapped water fowl, mallard, teal ducks, jacksnipes, etc.

There was the Sargent grade-schooler who failed to recognize paternal humor directed his way, and who took his father literally when instructed to go downtown for either a hair-cut or a dog license. He returned home with the dog license.

Nebraska Economy

Arcadia, Neb.

Nebraska's Republican senators, Hruska and Curtis, are rated near the top of the U.S. Senate by the Americans for Constitutional Action in voting for sound government. By comparison, the two Democratic senators from Reuther-controlled Michigan are on the bottom of the list.

By further comparison, while Michigan under its long-time Democratic governors is on the verge of bankruptcy, Nebraska with a tradition of Republican state government has a debt-free state economy.

Is this all a coincidence?

Two Defeats

Anselmo, Neb.

People who have voted twice for Stevenson are still ready to vote for him, but others say that a man who has been defeated twice has no chance.

No other man could have defeated Eisenhower, and a man chosen twice had the support of most of the party. It seems the party should not write him off, just because he didn't defeat Eisenhower.

Smell Of Oil

Lincoln, Neb.

All Texans know that a man's chapeau
Should symbolize his identity:
That the ten-gallon size shading Johnson's eyes
Could be worn by no nonentity.

When he chose to fling that hat in the ring
As convention time drew near,
Where it might exude its smell of crude
In Los Angeles' atmosphere—

Not a delegate nor a candidate
Nor an oil tycoon could tell,
In that land of fog intermixed with smog,
Whence came that oil-well smell.

CLIFF CALDWELL

Down With History

We can't help making history of some sorts but there is nothing we can do to make future generations ponder our mistakes and good fortunes. And in the opinion of one education authority, future generations will not be looking at what we did today or what the world was like in centuries past. Dr. Walter B. Cocking of New York, editor of "School Executive" magazine, made this startling prediction at a meeting in Lincoln of the All-Teachers College Conference.

With the short report we have on what Dr. Cocking said, it is a little difficult to come to any firm conclusions but some speculation is not out of order. He reported that education in the future will be concerned with the future and the present rather than the past which will become only incidental. If he meant by this that history as a course of study will be abandoned, he will be required to produce some convincing evidence in addition to his opinion.

There may be serious faults with the manner in which history is taught today and some may think that most history accounts are pretty dull and without grasp of the real significance of the events with which they deal. Unfortunately, too much history is simply a chronology and does little to stir the imagination and challenge the ability of any student. By the time the average student has gotten past this boring recitation of facts, figures, names and places, he has lost the incentive to pursue the real meaning behind these celebrated incidents of history.

But to abandon by a conscious effort the heritage of the past seems like a drastic and costly sacrifice. It would mean, in fact, an unprecedented change in everyone's way of life for there would be no security, no standards of measurement and no basis for judgment. It would appear to arrive at a state of complete anarchy. For what reason would we have to make such sacrifice? For our survival, according to Dr. Cocking, but he may have forgotten that survival is not an end in itself but the means to something greater. Survival at all costs? Not all humanity has yet subscribed to this philosophy.

The Trend Continues

The U.S. Department of Agriculture foresees no immediate change in the trend which is bringing larger farms and fewer farmers.

It said that average farm size jumped between 10 and 13 per cent every five years between the span of 1954-59 and that the new census figures will show that rate continuing.

This is not surprising. Nothing visible has happened to break the trend, and all of the forces at play encourage it. Power machinery makes more extensive farming possible. Acres withdrawn from cultivation through the soil bank and other devices make larger farms advisable from the point of view of the farmer who wishes to be fully occupied. And a bad price-cost relationship demands greater production.

But all in all the trend is a case of chasing a Will O' the Wisp. If there is the prospect of more gross income through more extensive planting there is also the offsetting detraction of investment and operating cost. The net gain is dubious.

This move toward bigness is in many ways as myopic as has been the administration's philosophy that economic stability can only come by creating a scarcity. The real national problem is plenty and what to do about it. The rules of scarcity will not apply, but rather result in false conditions which must be covered by the day's excessive farm appropriations. When the administration arrives which realizes that our food products are the greatest peaceable weapon against world communism we shall have learned how to profit from plenty and when that day comes there will be no surplus and no reason to withhold a single acre from production.

Missing A Big Bet

Should a vacation-minded resident of New York state decide to take his family to California he could count on several things. He would cross 10 states. In all but one of them he would be required to pay a sales tax. Nebraska would give him approximately 500 free miles.

In every state except Colorado he could expect to pay a cigaret tax and in all states he would have to shell out anywhere from 3 to 7 cents a gallon for his gasoline.

When he and his family reached California the sales tax would jump to 4 cents. California is tourist-minded and goes on the principle that it is fine to make the visitors contribute to the running expenses of the state.

One doubts whether the lack of a sales tax in Nebraska serves as an overwhelming inducement to pass this way. Our geographic position and the ease of level driving has more to do with why so many do choose trans-Nebraska routing. But it does point up something about which Nebraska is not thinking seriously enough.

The tourist business is a big one. It continually pours new money into an area. While a sales tax is one way to tap this distributive wealth—alluring recreational facilities are a better way. It is better to get a $25 windfall from a tourist who decides to stay over an extra day for the fun and diversion promised than to hasten him through the state, nicking him a dollar at the most on his cigarets and his gasoline, a few cents more if a sales tax is added.

It is not unusual nowadays for a few good recreation spots to attract upward of a million people a year. The more one thinks of that the more one esteems the State Game Department's idea of making a chain of lakes along the projected Interstate route between Grand Island and Big Springs. In terms of potential return the investment would be microscopic.

States Roll Call Vexes Leaders

LOS ANGELES — Optimists are always coming along with ideas for applying the rule of reason to politics. There are two here—Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, permanent chairman of the convention, and former National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell, counsel to the convention rules committee.

Their joint purpose is to avoid confusion in the calling of the roll of the states. Most of such confusion arises from the hallowed practice of allowing the various delegations to switch their votes before the final result is announced.

Well organized and with a friendly chairman wielding the gavel, these switches are a useful form of psychological warfare and recognized as such. Hence the importance of the permanent chairman and the frequent hassels over the job.

Already it is evident that the Kennedy forces are planning first-ballot switches from strategic states with the object of making his nomination appear inevitable. It is equally apparent that his rivals would like to see some slowdown of the process so that the emotional stampede aspect will be missing or at least impeded.

☆ ☆ ☆

Collins and Mitchell insist that everybody will profit from a solution which will convince both the convention and millions of television viewers that the count is fair and honest, with no one getting a better break than his rivals. Their prescriptions for achieving this are different.

The permanent chairman believes he can do it on his own by devising some method of arranging the switches before any one of them is called. He does not want it strictly alphabetical because that might make it susceptible to manipulation.

Mitchell is urging a change in the rules which would bar any state from changing its vote during a roll call. His plan provides for starting another roll call as soon as one is ended. Thus any change desired by a state must come on the succeeding roll call.

Robert Kennedy, campaign manager for his brother, has said they will oppose a policy of no switches, as envisioned by Mitchell, but that any system of "orderly recognition" to the Kennedy forces remains to be seen.

☆ ☆ ☆

It is, however, the famous struggle between Senators John Kennedy and Estes Kefauver for the vice-presidency in 1956 which prompted Mitchell to suggest reform of the procedure. Mitchell correctly says that the confusion surrounding it left many people, particularly television viewers, with the impression that Kennedy would have been named if a more orderly procedure had been followed.

National conventions are a peculiar institution, subject to no opinion but their own and having no life except the few days each is in session. They have in past years seemed to prefer the ills that afflict them than to fly to others they know not of. Any real struggle over the Mitchell-Collins ideas would probably doom them entirely.

No contest between the candidates yet impends with respect to the platform. They actually are showing little interest in it so far.

All Roads Lead To Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES — The convention casts its spell over the kibitzer. After the first few days you can't help but eat, sleep, think—and dream — about presidential candidates. I had a nightmare about them.

They were all out on the Los Angeles freeways. And if you've never been on any of the L.A. freeways, you can't imagine the mess . . .

There were four lanes heading out from the Biltmore Hotel. Somehow, my dream gave me the notion that the road went past the White House.

☆ ☆ ☆

In the lane far left, in a gold-plated hot-rod Cadillac, was Sen. John Kennedy. He headed a long line of cars filled with delegates. It was by far the busiest lane.

Up roared a cop, who strangely resembled a former U.S. president wearing an HST badge on his cap. He gave Kennedy a ticket for going so fast. He also handed a ticket to all the drivers behind him—for following too closely.

Actually, the dream started off with that little grey-haired cop leading a caravan of cars himself. This was in the lane second from the right. The cars carried Stu Symington banners. The policeman vainly kept waving them on, but they fell behind.

Now the policeman zoomed out to the far-right lane to urge on an entourage of drivers done up in ten-gallon Texas hats. But in crossing over, he did a strange thing. He thumbed his nose down the left-center lane at the car equipped with retreads, carrying the Stevenson banner.

The little cop, now in the right lane, in his eagerness to be helpful, bumped his fender against the car monogrammed LBJ, but the line kept moving along despite the slight collision.

Somehow I got mixed up in this nightmare and seemed to be wanting to get out of this jam—out into the open to some embankment to watch those poor sufferers jockey for position.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dreams jump around, and seemingly irrelevant pictures flash into view. I saw a man sitting on the fender of the Kennedy car. He looked like an official—like Paul Butler. He was pumping his brand of gasoline into the tank. The policeman gave him a ticket, too—and a lecture.

Now, the drivers were reaching across lanes, shaking fists and pulling hair. Wild motorists were coming in from side streets. There was Hubert Humphrey with 50 cars behind him.

Up ahead, all the traffic converged onto a single-lane road that combined with the Chicago Expressway. Suddenly everybody was bumping fenders, crossing over into one lane.

From nowhere there materialized a big wagon with a band on it. Everybody was trying to get onto it—nobody wanted the tag end. The little cop with the HST badge, pitifully, got lost in the shuffle.

But it was a frustrating dream. Just as I squinted to see the finish of this scramble, a thick Los Angeles smog dropped over the city, and derned if I know which lane finally made it.

New York Official's Trial Ends With Hung Jury

New York (AP)—Manhattan Borough President Hulan E. Jack's conflict of interest trial ended in a hung jury Thursday night.

After the jurors had been dismissed by general sessions judge Joseph A. Sarafite at 11:45 p.m., the foreman said the panel had voted 8-4 for conviction on two of the 4 charges.

The jury of 9 men and 3 women had deliberated 18 hours and 45 minutes after getting their instructions Wednesday. The trial had lasted 28 days.

There was no immediate word as to whether the state planned to seek a new trial for Jack, 52, the highest ranking Negro official in any American city.

A crowd of well-wishers surrounded Jack after the jury left. His wife, Almira, had to fight her way through the throng to embrace and kiss him.

Jack told newsmen: "I have nothing to say at this moment, except that I am going to church—right now." He is a Roman Catholic.

His attorney commented: "Mr. Jack is disappointed that he was not vindicated. But he is very happy that at least there was a disagreement."

Charles M. Giddens, the jury foreman and the only Negro on the panel, said the "big stumbling block" to agreement was the question of reasonable doubt.

He said they took about 15 ballots, voting separately on each of the 4 counts.

Jack was accused of violating the city charter by accepting a $4,400 aparment remodeling job from real estate operator Sidney Ungar, a business client of the city. He also was charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice by concocting a fictitious story that the payment was actually made by his wife from her household allowance.

Giddens said on the final ballot the jury stood 6-6 on the conspiracy count; 4 for innocent and 8 for guilty on the second and third counts, which involved the conflict of interest charges; and 8 for innocent and 4 for guilty on the last count, which also involved city charter violations.

Ungar, a white lawyer and real estate agent, formerly was Jack's campaign manager. The Harlem politician, a Democrat, has held the borough presidency since 1953, when he was elected with Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner's first administration.

Father, Son Face Income Tax Count

Omaha (AP)—A father and son from Scribner pleaded innocent Thursday to charges of income tax evasion.

They are Arthur H. Shultz, 75, president of the Farmers State Bank of Schribner, and Harold M. Shultz, 50, cashier of the bank and a practicing attorney.

The government charges the senior Shultz evaded paying $10,662 in income taxes from 1953 to 1957 inclusive and that his son failed to pay $5,344 from 1953 to 1956 inclusive.

Visiting Ward Officials Plan New Store Opening

. . . See Gateway Unit, Lincoln Expansion

Montgomery Ward officials were in Lincoln Thursday planning the opening in the Gateway Shopping center of the largest Ward's store between Chicago and Denver.

Sidney A. McKnight, who is regional general manager for 160 stores in 13 midwestern states, described the new store as "our most modern."

He expressed optimism about the future expansion of both Montgomery Ward and Lincoln and termed this an era of growth for both.

McKnight was host at a luncheon of Lincoln businessmen at which Don F. Vogel was introduced as manager of the new store. Vogel, 39, managed Ward's present store in Lincoln from 1951 to 1952, and Ward stores in Casper, Wyo., Cedar Rapids, Ia. and Des Moines, Ia.

He also served as regional operating assistant and district general manager in St. Paul, Minn., and home furnishings merchandise manager for Ward's eastern region.

Vogel noted that the decor and merchandise presentations in the store will be the newest of any Ward's establishment and will feature emphasis on men and women's clothing.

He said that more than 400 persons will be employed at the store at opening time, which is set for Aug. 18. There are presently 35 persons employed at the downtown Ward's store, which will be closed.

The new store will be "a complete one-stop shopping center," Vogel said.

McKnight said the new store will be the 14th retail store opened by the company this year and the 30th since the current expansion program began in March, 1957.

Ward's Gateway store will be the largest of more than 25 stores in the center and will have 117,000 square feet on 2 levels. The auto service station will accomodate 12 cars.

Giant Reactor Slowly Moves Toward Road

Lincoln Star Special

Murdock—"If" things go as expected, the giant nuclear reactor vessel which toppled from its cradle near Murdock will be home Monday.

The 67-ton vessel should be ready to resume travel toward Hallam sometime Saturday.

A 15-member crew, armed with heavy cables and equipment, is inching the big tin can up a wooden track to the road from which it fell.

Since the thundering mishap, the jumbo-sized vessel has been under the observation of guards from a Lincoln protection agency.

The guards, according to on-the-spot officials, are attempting to discourage the streams of on-lookers.

One official told The Star that by late Thursday, the vessel had been muscled over half way back to the road. It rolled some 300 feet from the road.

Moving operations have been in full swing for two days.

Winches, mounted on two tracks, are doing the heavy work.

Tugging together, the winches pull the reactor forward up the heavy track at a rate of 3 or 4 inches a minute.

The winches stop periodically while workers pick up the track and move it forward.

Scientists Lax In Informing Public

Washington (AP) — A group of scientists charged Thursday that most scientists are lax about keeping the public informed on important issues with which they deal.

A special committee of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science said this failure has contributed to an impending crisis which "may disrupt the history of mankind." The association is the world's largest general organization of scientists.

In what was described as a major policy statement — growing out of more than 5 years' study—the 9-man committee challenged the scientists to speak out directly to the public.

The group said scientists have "a serious and immediate responsibility to mediate the effects of scientific progress on human welfare," as regards such issues as:

The control of nuclear energy; disarmament; population control; the use of scientific research in international military and political rivalry; the biological effects of food additives; and the social consequences of automation.

On such issues, the report said, the task of scientists is not to recommend specific courses of action but "to provide for the general public the facts and estimates of the effects of alternative policies which the citizen must have if he is to participate intelligently in the solution of these problems."

The group also indirectly criticized the approach to public issues taken by some scientific groups, including recently formed scientific advisory groups to the Democratic and Republican parties.

While implying commendation that such groups take an active interest in public issues, the committee indicated it believed they attempt to recommend specific courses of action by the government, rather than supplying facts from which the general public itself could make decisions.

In this connection, the report said the Federation of American Scientists, initiated by scientists who worked on the wartime atomic bomb project, "is frankly designed to give scientists a direct voice in discussions of political matters that relate to science."

It also said scientific groups represented by the bulletin of the atomic scientists take an approach which "results in a deliberate effort, on the part of these scientists, to persuade government agencies to follow a recommended course of action."

Smith Wins Top Honors At Guard Training School

Cpl. James L. Smith of Lincoln, an Army reservist, walked off with top honors at the annual Nebraska National Guard Non-Commissioned Officer School this summer, officials reported Thursday.

Smith led the class of 52 non-commissioned officers with a 92% academic average. A University of Nebraska junior in accounting, Smith is assigned to Company B of the First Battalion, 355th Regiment (BCT) headquartered in Lincoln.

He was given a certificate of merit at Camp Ashland by Maj. Gen. Thomas Griffin, commanding general of the 16th U.S. Army Corps.

Warm welcome extended Presidential candidate Lar Daly by Jack Paar cooled before campaigner's 'Equal time' ended.

LAR LEAVES PAAR SPEECHLESS

New York (AP)—Lar (America First) Daly got equal air time Thursday night as a Democratic Presidential hopeful on Jack Paar's NBC television show. He also got an icy reception.

Paar promptly described Daly's appearance on his show as "an abuse of equal time"—and a boisterous studio audience frequently booed and heckled Chicago's self-styled "Tireless candidate."

Paar had to work hard throughout Daly's entire appearance to keep the show within its usual format—questions from the audience, and answers from the candidate.

All Daly wanted to do was make a speech.

At the end, a weary Paar dropped his accustomed role as a comedian and sharply criticized the federal communications Commission for ordering equal time on the show for Daly.

Speaking seriously, Paar said:

"This ruling by the FCC makes me ashamed, for the first time, to be a part of the entertainment industry. I'm shocked and ashamed. This ruling by the FCC abuses the decent principle of equal time. It makes an absurdity of equal time."

The studio audience, which only a minute earlier had booed Daly, broke into cheers and applause for Paar.

As Daly, attired in his Uncle Sam costume with high hat and chin whiskers, walked off the set, Paar once again became the comedian. "This is rather a historical moment, I guess," Paar said, "because I'm speechless. And that hasn't happened before."

Daly flew here from Chicago to appear on the program after the FCC in Washington had ruled that he was a legally qualified candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

The FCC ruling was made under federal regulations which stipulate equal air time be allowed all candidates. Daly had asked the FCC for equal time after an appearance June 16 by Sen. John F. Kennedy on the Paar program.

'Aerospace, Education Mutually Interactive'

. . . Nebraska Teachers Told

A member of the Pentagon's Institute for Defense Analyses told teachers attending the All-Teachers College Conference at the University of Nebraska Thursday they could put many of the methods and ideas used to develop missiles to good use in the field of education.

Everett T. Welmers said the areas of aerospace and education "at first consideration appear to have little in common, but actually are mutually interactive across extensive interfaces."

He pointed out that aerospace can and should have a vital impact on education, that it contributes not only subject matter, but also unification and pertinency to education.

From a reverse viewpoint, he said, advances in aerospace are completely dependent upon the successes which education must attain.

He noted that America's prestige and world support are evaluated in terms of technical success in aerospace explorations and said the success in resolving problems between education and aerospace "significantly contributes to our national posture in a world of cold wars, limited conflicts and threats of a nuclear holocuast."

Welmers said that although missile development techniques were worked out on complex aerospace systems, "it is also highly appropriate that they should be utilized in analyzing and resolving many of the problems which education faces today."

This, he said, is an area that educators have not significantly explored and one "in which engineers and scientists have failed to exert leadership.

"If ever a field required the system analysis approach it is the field of education. I therefore suggest that particular attention to certain of the principles, philosophies and procedures applied in systems in engineering be carefully studied for their usage in education."

Mollet Re-elected

Paris (UPI)—The French Socialist party re-elected former Premier Guy Mollet as its secretary general and Georges Vrutlle, Pierre Herbaud and Ernest Cazelles as assistant secretary generals.

'DOGMAS HAMPER CREATIVE TEACHING'—EDUCATOR

An educator from George Peabody College for Teachers Thursday told Nebraska teachers attending a conference at the University of Nebraska that the teaching profession is hemmed in by dogmas which seriously hamper creative instruction.

Dr. Samuel Wiggins, speaking before the All-Teachers College Conference whose theme is "Creative Teaching," said "The unfortunate truth is that a number of dogmas about teaching are mistaken for the fact.

"Our minds are made up, and we do not wish to be dislodged by the weight of evidence which refutes or even questions what we 'know.' We are too often unable or unwilling to take a genuine new look at the science and art of teaching."

Dr. Wiggins said that teachers tinker with trifles, but "we put new wine into old bottles. We need to take a fresh look at the bottles, the vessels in which the educational programs are contained. Until we do, the teachers' efforts at creativity are seriously hampered."

Class Size Barrier

He said that one of the barriers to creative teaching today is the dogma of class size. "We have held to the notion for many years that some arbitrary number represents a maximum size of a class for instruction.

He added, however, that to deny the value of large auditorium-like groups "constitutes a refusal to square with the fact, but many of us do not wish our comforting assumption about a magic class size to be disturbed."

Another dogma, he said, relates to the notion that a teacher should be a jack-of-all-trades. "The teacher cannot be creative in his most important role if he is forced to spend a large share of his time in areas where he is relatively inefficient doing duties for which he, even as a teacher, is overpaid," Dr. Wiggins explained.

Another barrier is "the dogma that does not admit serious consideration of merit rating for paying creative teachers," he said.

Dr. Wiggins said he was disturbed about the degree to which educators are backing away from the challenge of merit rating as a way of encouraging creative teaching.

"If we take the position that everybody's salaries must be raised to some substantially higher minimum than at present before we can regard the meritorious we are in an inexcusable predicament."

The Issues in Milk Pricing

Last year 11,000,000 pounds of milk were imported into the Omaha-Council Bluffs-Lincoln market from outside local health department supervision and control.

For Omaha, Council Bluffs and Lincoln represent a single market to be supplied by the Nebraska-Iowa Milk Producers Association. In fact, the Association supplies Grand Island and much of Western Nebraska, too.

The Nebraska-Iowa Milk Producers Association has expressed the desire to boost production in order that all milk consumed in this area be produced under local health inspection, with quality guaranteed as fully as humanly possible.

By and large, dairies interested in quality agreed that such an objective simply must be accomplished. For the better the raw product, the better the finished product coming from a quality dairy.

Obviously, no dairy can do much with raw product of mediocre quality. One brand is much like another. But with high quality raw milk, the effect of quality control must make an enormous difference.

The Controversy

In negotiations between dairies and Association, differing views developed regarding emphasis either upon quality or inducement, although all recognized that both must be considered. Differences also arose as to the role of the Association, itself, with regard to quality.

During negotiations the need for a premium was frankly discussed. The dangers considered privately by independents were these:

1. The possibility that some company use money from other markets to subsidize any increase to producers, including the possible juggling of costs and profits within the tri-city trade area itself.

2. Possible use of lower-than-average wages within the tri-city area to break down wage levels and benefits for all dairy employees.

3. Willingness to sacrifice quality control to sell on price alone, to destroy confidence in brand-acceptance through forcing a market-wide reduction in standards.

4. Possible use of independents as scapegoats in a fight to remove the Association from any concern or participation in the matter of milk quality in the market.

With the foregoing hazards involved, the decision for independents especially was not easy. They did not have nation-wide resources to bolster the courage which comes with no real gamble. But they were joined by some national organizations more interested in quality than in temporary advantage of some kind.

And the dairies interested in quality felt they simply had no other choice without sacrificing public interest. Nothing less than the best would do.

A risk had to be taken.

You, the Public, Must Judge

An agreement was finally reached; whether graciously or grudgingly may well be illustrated by what happens.

According to the Association, dairies in the Omaha-Council Bluffs-Lincoln market, as well as the Grand Island-Western Nebraska market, are now paying a premium of 37c per hundred-weight above the Federal Market Order prices for bottled milk.

In addition to this 37c premium, dairies are paying a premium of 15c per hundredweight to help offset the cost of converting to the bulk tank method of gathering milk. The bulk tank premium has been in effect for two years and will continue for another two and one-half years to assure production under the improved method.

And there are only 46 quarts in 100 pounds of milk, figuring no losses in handling. Needless to say, other costs have risen in the dairy industry just as they have in other industries, over and above the cost of raw material.

You, the public, must determine whether the quality dairies in your community made a wise or foolish decision in their efforts to serve you better. Your patronage is the answer.

ROBERTS DAIRY CO.

Family Features

Dear Abby—

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 18 years and up until lately my husband and I got along like a pair of honeymooners. He never worked, but I didn't care because I took in washing. I liked having him around the house. I always knew where he was and he was always around when I wanted him.

Then he went and got himself a job, which spoiled everything. All he needs is a few dollars in his pocket and he is a changed man. He sasses me back and leaves the house without my permission. He was such a sweet, devoted husband until he started making money. I'd give anything to get him back like he was. Can you help me?

TEARS

Dear Tears: The only way you can "get him back like he was" is to make him quit his job. But that would be unfair. Now that he has at last acquired some ambition and self-respect, you should encourage this manly (if belated) change for the better. If you really prefer a man who is jobless and beholden — you want a gigolo, not a husband.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman, 36. I have never been married but I am not giving up hope. (I'm not desperate and can afford to be fussy.) I have a good position in an office. In fact, I run the office.

My problem is that I have been putting weight on like crazy lately. But now that I have filled myself out, I'm afraid if I lost weight I will have wrinkles where I once had fat. I was no beauty when I was thinner, but I think I'd rather be fat like I am, than thin and wrinkled.

None of my good clothes fit me any more and people are beginning to tell me ("for my own good") that I am too heavy. What should I do?

FROM SPREADSVILLE

DEAR FROM SPREADSVILLE: Quit rationalizing and start rationing your caloric intake. Let your physician tell you how much you should lose and how to lose it. If you diet sensibly you won't trade fat for wrinkles.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I am getting the reputation for being the "meanest mother on the block" because I don't allow my 11-year-old son to stay up and watch horror movies on TV. His two playmates can watch those programs. My child is ridiculed because of it, and so am I. How do other mothers handle this problem, Abby?

MEANEST MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You are responsible for raising your own son, not the neighborhood—so don't be influenced by what the "other kids" can do. When youngsters' boast that they have "permission" —investigation usually reveals that they simply are not supervised. My hat is off to you, Mother.

☆ ☆ ☆

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CURIOUS": A rich girl is "well-traveled" — a poor girl has "been around." The net result is usually the same.

ASK—

Dorothy Draper

I'm happy to see that there is old and new Tyrolean, hand-painted furniture on the market. Just to see it recalled one of my most delightful trips to Austria years ago. The first floor of each house was of cement, painted brilliant colors like salmon-pink, cornflower-blue or bright yellow.

Where I was the mountains rose steeply out of the valley and many of the bedrooms on the second floor opened onto a balcony with a view of an enchanting village in the distance.

The memory of the rosy-cheeked young girls in their gay cotton dirndls with a wreath of flowers in their hair and the echoes of the village musicians all came back to me as I looked over the cradles, milking stools, boxes splashed with flowers, painted beds, flower-painted armoires, a grandfather's clock and ladder back chairs. They were in a modern department store, waiting for someone to come buy them and mix these gay reminders of another land in with their staid plain polished pieces of today.

It would be like bringing a bouquet of fresh flowers into a room and it would be sure to make you feel happy just to have them around.

Mrs. P.D.A. asks:

"I have a piece of driftwood which I picked up on the beach last summer. It looks like an abstract painter's idea of a fawn and I would like to use it somewhere in my house, but how?"

Dear Mrs. P.D.A.:

Driftwood pieces have become so popular they are even on the market today. They are used as wall ornaments, on the floor under a window, over a fireplace, as lamp bases and I know someone who uses one as a decorative newel post at the foot of the stairs. The shape dictates how the pieces should be used.

Mrs. C. H. asks:

"In my living room I have a 3-piece black sectional, a turquoise chair and a gray chair. The gray chair is to be done over. Can you suggest a color for it? The wallpaper in this room is a black and white scribble effect. Also can you suggest a rug color?"

Dear Mrs. C.H.:

If I have said it once I have said it 90 times, if you would only have your two chairs covered in the same color you wouldn't run into trouble. Cover the gray chair to match the turquoise one. A turquoise and black tweed rug would make a soothing contribution. Then do get lots of chalk-white accessories and add a bouquet of yellow primroses.

Mrs. C.B.D. asks:

"What's a good color with avocado green?"

Dear Mrs. C.B.D.:

Peacock blue or paprika-red would be a good choice.

TALK

—As of yesterday Lincoln has a new author whose book is just fresh off the presses. If you are in the market for a new romantic novel, or have been searching for something different in the whodunnit department, don't hurry to the book stands. Our author's book is not a novel. It could be classified as a mystery to all who know nothing of the ins and outs of health insurance. And there is the book's title —"Health Insurance," and the author? Edwin J. Faulkner.

We understand that the book, published by McGraw-Hill, will be used as a text book by colleges, universities—and, of course, insurance companies.

* * *

—Speaking of books—turn over a new leaf in your address book, and jot down these changes:

Mr. and Mrs. James Carrier — former address 1540 Circle Dr., now residing at 3910 Stockwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dobson II—moved from 4823 South St., to 2010 Broadmore.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Johnson (Sandra Sick) whose new address is 3344 E. Pershing Rd., and who formerly resided at 2427 A St.

Last, but by no means least — Dean and Mrs. Charles S. Miller (Dean of the College of Business Administration), who have moved from 2501 LaFayette, to 3433 Woodshire.

Summer, Autumn Brides-Elect

MISS JOANNE ARDELL ALLEN

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Allen of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joanne Ardell, to Bruce George Eskildeen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Eskildeen of Lexington.

The ceremony will be solemnized on Thursday, August 25.

Both Miss Allen and her fiance are students at Union College.

MISS JUDITH ANN LEBSACK

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Olson of Geneva make announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Judith Ann Lebsack of Lincoln, to William C. Dietemeyer, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dietemeyer of Lincoln.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Oct. 15.

Miss Lebsack is a former student at Hastings College, and her fiance was graduated from the University of Nebraska.

Fun News In Suburbia

KESSLER HEIGHTS

Heard from the stork of a new resident in the suburb. She is little Miss Terri Lee Eggleston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Eggleston, who was born on Tuesday, June 28, at Lincoln General Hospital. Other members of the younger generation at the Eggleston home are Mike, Bill, Denise and Paul.

Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer of Watertown, Wis., and her maternal grandmother is Mrs. Virginia Hoggatt of Minneapolis, Minn.

Neighbors are happy to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Kirkpatrick to Kessler Heights. Formerly residing at 6110 Gladstone, the couple moved to 2539 Kessler Blvd., the first of July.

And the former occupants of that address on Kessler Blvd., Lt. and Mrs. Ivel D. Freeman, have moved to new quarters at the Lincoln Air Force Base. The Freemans' new address is 6020 Sarnoski Drive.

PRAIRIE VALLEY

And last Thursday, June 30, found little Jonathan Biehn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Biehn, blowing out one candle on his first birthday cake. Guests for the party at his home included his parents, brothers, Steve and Mike, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Bergmann and their children, Paul, Peter and Ann.

HOLLINGSWORTH HEIGHTS

We must stop and backtrack a few days to mention more guests in Lincoln. Visiting at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leth, over the long holiday week end were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnson of Fremont.

On this morning's social agenda in the suburb is the coffee planned by Mrs. John Cunningham. About 20 guests from up and down the block are expected to drop in for coffee and an informal get-together.

SOUTH HILLS

Taking to the highways for the Fourth of July holiday were Mr. and Mrs. W. Edgar Gates, Jr., and their children, Stephen, David, Kathleen, and George. Their five-day vacation was spent at Lake Okoboji, Ia.

Another South Hills family, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Larson and their children, were in the Hawkeye state during the week end. They visited relatives in Albert City, Ia.

Not everyone in the suburb was out of town over the holiday as visitors did come to Lincoln. Spending several days here last week end were Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ludwig and their daughters, Barbara and Sara. The foursome visited at the home of Mrs. Ludwig's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neal and family.

FIENE HEIGHTS

CONTRACT BRIDGE

...By B. Jay Becker

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1♦	Dble.	Pass	?

What would you now bid with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠AQ84 ♥J98 ♦5 ♣KJ762
2. ♠Q8 ♥Q2 ♦QJ94 ♣AJ953
3. ♠AK7 ♥J854 ♦A83 ♣Q52
4. ♠988 ♥AQJ7642 ♦8 ♣J6

1. Three clubs. When partner makes an informatory double, the responder is under a greater obligation than just to show his long suit. He may, after all, have a poor hand or a good hand—one that offers little promise of game or one that offers an excellent chance for game. In responding to the double, therefore, since he is bidding under compulsion, responder must be careful to make a strong bid when he has a strong hand.

This he usually does by making a jump response. In the present case, a game seems very likely. The doubler has announced an opening bid or better, and support for at least two of the unbid suits. With 11 high-card points and good distribution, game must be just around the corner. The clubs are bid first so that partner will know, when and if the spades are later shown, that the spades are only four cards in length.

2. Two notrump. The best bid, by far. Obviously, the hand is too good for only one notrump or two clubs. Partner would have no way to know, in either case, that we have 12 high-card points facing his presumable 14 or more.

It may seem strange that we shoot for a notrump game without stoppers in spades our hearts, but partner's double strongly implies strength in both suits. The three club response is avoided because an eleven-trick game is far less likely to be made than the nine-trick no trump game.

3. Two diamonds. Clearly, a game is in the cards, but a jump to two hearts (with such a weak suit) or two notrump (with only one diamond stopper) would misrepresent our values.

A cue bid is therefore made to force partner to select a suit (or notrump). This is not a case of dodging the issue—it is just that we are not in a position at the moment to make the best choice. The decision belongs in partner's lap.

4. Four hearts. Here there is no question in which suit or at what level the final contract should be played. With seven playing tricks of our own facing what is announced to be at least an opening bid, there should be a good play for game. The jump directly to game does not show great high-card strength but only a very long suit. It is not a slam try.

KITCHEN PIN-UP

Cheese sauce always has been a favorite way of glamorizing vegetables. Now it can be had as often as wanted, for it takes but a moment to heat the spread in a small saucepan over very low heat or in the top of a double boiler.

Wash fresh broccoli before use and cut off the tougher ends of the stalks. The flowers cook more quickly than do the stems, and for this reason it is a good idea to place only the stems in boiling water, allowing steam to cook the flowers.

BROCCOLI WITH CHEESE SAUCE

1 cup pasteurized process cheese spread
2 hard-cooked eggs
1 lb. broccoli, cooked

Heat the cheese spread in a saucepan over low heat or in a double boiler. Chop the egg whites and add to the sauce. Pour over the hot broccoli which has been arranged in 4 individual serving dishes. Garnish with the hard-boiled egg yolks which have been pressed through a strainer. 4 servings.

Ground-in grime... or simply soiled...

you need CLOROX to get out dirt that suds leave in!

Never doubt it. Suds-proof dirt sneaks into lightly soiled washloads, too. Example: the stubborn soil inside shirt collars or blouses. Worse yet, it's a build-up of this same kind of dirt that makes entire washes gray. How can Clorox get out such dirt when even the best detergents fail?

Clorox cleans in a way suds can't. Detergent will loosen ordinary dirt. But stubborn, gray-causing dirt is locked in too tightly to be loosened. This dirt demands the special dissolving action of Clorox bleach. Clorox literally melts suds-proof dirt away. Next wash, ground-in grime, or simply soiled, discover it for yourself...

Clorox actually dissolves suds-proof dirt that makes clothes gray!

LBJ: Kennedy 'Wagon' In Reverse

By Bill Boyarsky

San Francisco (AP) — Sen. Lyndon Johnson asserted Thursday that Sen. John F. Kennedy, his rival for the Democratic Presidential nomination, "has lost more votes in the past week than he picked up in the handful of contested primaries he entered."

The tall Texas Senator did not mention the Massachusetts Senator by name, referring to him as a "candidate." Johnson arrived this evening for a northern California reception en route to the Los Angeles convention.

Jovial and self-confident, Johnson told a news conference that Kennedy's supporters must be wondering if the bandwagon "broke down while crossing the plains. He claimed 710 votes 3 weeks ago, 670 a week later and now it has less than 600 votes left."

"This candidate," Johnson added, "has lost more votes in the last week than he picked up in the handful of contested primaries he entered. I suspect that the delegates are a little tired of having their minds made up for them in the headlines.

In Reverse

"That is one bandwagon that seems to be going in reverse."

Asked what he considered for a civil rights platform plank, Johnson observed that it wasn't too important whether such a plank were "strong or weak" but added:

"Civil rights requires the kind of leadership that can persuade people of widely divergent views that there is a path of progress upon which men of good will can and must walk. The best plank in the world is meaningless unless we can find the leadership that can unite the North and the South for action."

California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown met Johnson at the reception and they shook hands warmly. Said the governor:

"I just want to welcome my friend and one of the greatest living Americans to San Francisco and California."

Quizzed

Brown was asked by reporters about persistent rumors that he has decided whom to support in the Los Angeles convention opening Monday.

"I'm not saying a single solitary thing until Sunday," the Governor said.

He has a news conference slated then in Los Angeles.

In Chicago earlier Thursday, Johnson criticized victory statements from the Kennedy camp and asked:

"Is this convention open or has the outcome been determined somewhere in a back room with the results only now being announced to the delegates?"

Johnson, Senate majority leader, issued a hotly worded statement at a news conference during a plane stopover en route from Washington to California.

It came only 5 days after former President Harry S. Truman declared there are indications that the Democratic national convention was being rigged in favor of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Truman spoke highly of Johnson in his statement.

Despite the statements from the Kennedy campaigners, Johnson said he believes the nominating sessions will be open and that he will win the nomination for President.

Johnson referred to a New York Times story from Los Angeles in which, he said, Kennedy's brother, Robert, predicted the outcome of the convention would be decided by noon Monday, 5 hours before its official opening.

"There are countries in the world where such pure arrogance is customary in politics," Johnson said. "This is not that kind of country."

Johnson said that apparently there are people "who want to ignore the formality of a convention altogether and go ahead and nominate their candidate. This will come as a great surprise to the delegates."

200 ROUTED BY AMMONIA GAS

Wyaconda, Mo. (AP) — Ammonia gas from a leaking tank truck routed about 200 persons from their beds early Thursday in this small northeast Missouri town. Nine persons were overcome and taken to a hospital.

Almost half of the 480 residents of Wyaconda were forced to leave their homes between 12:30 and 1 a.m. They couldn't return until 3:30 a.m. Some were barefoot, many were in night clothes. They stayed in parked cars, at nearby farms and some gathered in a cemetery.

The tanker was unloading its supply of anhydrous ammonia at a fertilizer plant when the leak developed. The ammonia, compressed in liquid form, became a gas as it escaped.

Hijinks By Rival Puerto Rico Delegates Enlivens 'Confab'

Beverly Hills, Calif. (AP) — One of Puerto Rico's two delegations livened up pre-democratic convention hijinks Thursday with a marimba band invasion of their rivals' news conference.

About 30 men and women, some wearing straw hats and shouting in Spanish, marched to the lively Latin music into the hotel news conference by the delegation headed by Richard C. Durham.

The task force assembled in the parking lot of the Beverly Hilton Hotel and then marched through the lobby, passed startled guests and workers.

Placards

They carried placards boosting Jose Benitez, chairman of the delegation that is battling with Durham's faction for the right to represent the island at next week's convention.

There were shouts: "Down with Felisa" (Mayor Felisa Rincon De Gautier of San Juan).

Then, to a rousing cha-cha-cha beat, they broke into the news conference and marched around the table where Durham and 5 others sat smiling, weakly.

Withdrew

The group, including two children, then made a noisy, musical withdrawal back through the lobby to their cars in the parking lot.

After the hoopla, Victor Guttierrez Franqui, who claims to be Puerto Rico's national committeeman, said:

"They just sang and danced, but did little else."

The credentials committee of the convention decides later this week which of the Puerto Rican delegations will be seated.

LABOR UNION LEADERS READY BEHIND-SCENES

Los Angeles (AP) — Many of the nation's top labor union leaders are gathering to play an active behind-scenes role at the Democratic national convention.

For the moment they are concentrating on getting the party to write into its platform of political commitments such union objectives as government props to the economy, labor law revisions, and a strong civil rights plank.

The union chiefs are taking part, too, in the jockeying between the leading candidates for the party's Presidential nomination.

For Jack

Most are reported inclined toward Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts but a number of influential union chiefs are working for Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri. Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas also have some union support.

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, is keeping mum about his own choice among the candidates. But this is in deference to an AFL-CIO policy agreement to steer clear of any formal union endorsements until both major party conventions are over.

Actually Reuther is believed to favor Kennedy strongly. Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan is out for Kennedy. A bevy of Reuther aides, here with the UAW chieftain, are openly wearing Kennedy buttons.

Uncommitted

With the heads of two unions — the steelworkers and mine workers — in a position to wield great influence in the big Pennsylvania delegation as yet uncommitted, the Keystone state appears likely to live up more than ever this year to its reputation as a Presidential kingmaker.

David J. McDonald, head of the steelworkers, and Thomas Kennedy, new mine workers president as successor to John L. Lewis, both are Pennsylvania delegates. Both have kept silent on their choice. The Pennsylvania group will caucus Monday morning.

McDonald is reported inclined toward Kennedy. After settlement of last winter's big steel strike, when credit was extended to Vice President Richard M. Nixon for getting the union and industry into agreement, McDonald went out of his way to say that Sen. Kennedy's father, former ambassador Joseph Kennedy, had played an important part in the settlement by exercising influence in Wall Street.

Harry May Attend Meet

Independence, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said Thursday he has under consideration a request by Missouri Gov. James T. Blair that he attend the Democratic national convention as a delegate.

Blair telephoned Truman from Los Angeles Thursday and told the former President he refused to accept Truman's resignation as a member of the Missouri delegation and that "it's your duty to attend."

"I haven't made up my mind what I'll do," Truman said, "but it was mighty nice of him (Blair) to say that, wasn't it? The convention doesn't open until Monday so I have a few more days to decide."

Truman resigned from the Missouri delegation last week and announced in a nationally-televised press conference that nothing would make him change his decision not to attend the convention. He charged then the convention was being pre-arranged in favor of Sen. John F. Kennedy, front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Pen Trustees At Work On School For Deaf Projects

Trustees from the State Penitentiary began work at the Nebraska School for the Deaf.

The 8 men are working on grounds improvement projects at the school.

Deputy Warden John Greenholtz said the men would stay in a dormitory at the school and return to the prison on weekends.

In addition to the men at the school, a detail of 10 men is working at the Two Rivers Recreation Area west of Omaha, Greenholtz said.

Work details are temporary but Greenholtz said they may be kept intact on a "more or less permanent basis" and sent from one state institution to another to do similar work.

Stan Delaplane's POSTCARD

One of the most important things we are doing this summer is looking for a summer job.

I tell you, I nearly wept with joy when our teen-age offspring sprang this idea on me. For a number of years it has been my secret hope—to live off the moppets I have cherished to this working age.

"What sort of job, my dear?" I said kicking off my shoes and slipping into some casual loafers. "Something well-paid, I trust."

Well, it has to be something INTERESTING. Not just any old job.

I could see it was no case of easy come. But I stuck with it.

☆ ☆ ☆

"There is an excellent baby-sitting job. The Scofflaws are going to be away for two weeks and somebody has to take care of the bra--, I mean the children.

"I have been meaning for some time to raise your baby-sitting rate," I said. "With a little luck, I think I could stick—that is, I could let you charge Mr. Scofflaw 75 cents an hour."

Baby-sitting, it seems, is for kids. It is not interesting at all.

What we had in mind was something like—well, maybe it could not be EXACTLY like it. But maybe like a summer replacement for Marilyn Monroe. We are willing to start at the bottom of the ladder—a six-months contract at $100 a week.

Or maybe $200. Because everybody knows they pay WILD amounts for people who replace Marilyn Monroe.

☆ ☆ ☆

"I have it on the best authority," I said sadly, "that Miss Monroe is working this summer. She may need the money more than you do. Do you have any other situations you would accept?"

We would accept a job at the ice cream parlor. But somebody else got that already.

We would also accept a job as an author. Only nobody has asked us.

we would LOVE A job flying airplanes. Only we do not know how to fly.

"It appears we have run through your talents," I said gloomily.

"At least I'm willing to work," she said.

☆ ☆ ☆

It seems a curious thing. Other people's children go out and play the violin. Or, at six years can do the square root of incredible numbers.

My own kids show no talent except for living off the old man.

My five-year-old boy is a gold mine.

Not to me, to the plumber. My plumber loves this boy. "So he took off the whole faucet assembly with his little bare hands, did he? And put his shoes down the drain? You rascal!"

He gives the child a lollipop.

I think the boy is on his Christmas list. A gold pipe-wrench. It should be tax deductible.

Although this mere infant can take a $500 water heater apart without tools, he cannot put a 10-cent toy together again.

His genius ends at removing bolts. He cannot put a crayon back in a crayon box. I cannot think of any job he will be suited for. Unless I can hire him out as a saboteur.

"You wouldn't like to have a nice job in a nice store, would you?" I asked our daughter.

No, it seems she would not. What we are really looking for is something glamorous. There are millions of glamorous jobs. If I will just put my mind to it and get one for her.

Until then, it looks like we will just have to lie around the beach and wait for something to turn up. Heaven knows, we tried.

REED TO LEAVE JULY 21 FOR HOLLAND

The University of Nebraska's ground-water expert, Eugene C. Reed, is going to take a busman's holiday.

The director of the Division of Conservation and Survey is planning to tour Holland.

Reed

Actually, Reed, who is one of America's foremost authorities on ground water, wants to find out what one does when one has too much ground water.

This is a peculiar attitude for a Nebraskan to have, but actually, he said, there are stretches in Nebraska where there is too much ground water and it is lost by the process of evapotranspiration.

The state geologist plans to visit the polders of Holland by the Zuider Zee, first, to see how they reclaimed the land, and, secondly how they maintained the ground water level by a drainage and pumping procedure.

Reed believes that he will obtain some ideas that might help in artificial recharge of ground water in the state.

He also plans to study the sand-dune system of water supply at Amsterdam, attend the International Geologic Congress in Denmark, and visit geological survey offices in Northern Europe. He will leave Lincoln July 21, returning Sept. 3.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key number left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures spell you. PALMER FALLS 7 BEHIND LEADER

...British Open Winds Up Today

St. Andrews, Scotland (AP)—Long-hitting Roberto De Vicenzo's second straight 67 sent him into the halfway lead of the British Open golf championship Thursday with 134. Arnold Palmer was in a familiar spot 7 shots back.

Question around St. Andrews' Old Course going into today's double-round climax was: Can the daring young professional from Latrobe, Pa. duplicate his miracle comebacks of the Masters and U.S. Open tournaments?

Overcame 9 Strokes

Palmer sank birdies on the final two holes to win the Masters and overcame 9 strokes on the final day — 7 in the last round — for an unbelievable victory in the U.S. Open last month at Denver.

Entering today's showdown De Vicenzo — a transplanted Argentine — had a two-stroke edge over Kel Nagle, a one-time mill worker from Australia who added a 67 to a previous 69.

Then came Palmer at 141 following a frustrating second round of 71 tied with Australia's Peter Thomson and surprising Sebastian Miguel of Spain, who rallied with a brilliant 68.

A pair knotted at 142 were Fidel Deluca of Argentina with 69-73 and L. B. Ayton of England, 73-69.

Player At 71

Defending champion Gary Player of South Africa was fighting putting miseries and was one of 5 at 143 after a shaky 71. Player said, however:

"I'll putt this course's eyes out tomorrow — I'm confident I'll win."

With warm and almost windless weather prevailing it took a score of 149 or better to qualify for the final two rounds, limited to a maximum of 50.

Par for the venerable layout is 36-37—73. Bill Johnson of Provo, Utah made it with 75-74—149, but Jack Isaacs of Langley Air Force Base, Va. missed with a second straight 77.

Sarazen Is Out

Gene Sarazen, the 58-year-old squire of Germantown, N.Y., made good his threat and withdrew.

Palmer was dejected after his round, which for the second straight day saw him play near perfect golf from tee to green only to see his hopes dissipated on the greens.

"It's disgusting," he said disconsolately. "If I have to play that well to shoot 71, what am I going to do when I have a bad round?"

The U.S. champion never missed a fairway. He was in only two bunkers—at the 10th and 11th—and he hit 17 greens in regulation figures.

Four Lip Cup

He saw 4 of his putts lip the cup, just as 8 putts did the day before, and he left two others within a single roll of home.

He 3-putted the 567-yard 5th and the 17th road hole, both from 60 feet.

In each case he failed from 4 feet on his second putt for the only two 5s on his card.

After failing on birdie putts on the first 5 holes, Palmer finally ran in one from 10 feet at the 6th.

Two Other Birdies

He had two other birdies. At the 12th he ran in one from 12 feet and at the 560-yard 14th, scene of the infamous Hell Bunker, he almost reached the green with two mighty wood shots.

Palmer's only bogey came on the 173-yard par-3 11th. There he hit his tee shot into a bunker, exploded poorly and missed from 12 feet.

The serious young man, wearing a white cap and gray sweater, played with grim determination.

He smoked incessantly. He didn't pass the usual pleasantries with his wife, Winnie, and father.

IT TAKES TWO TO TANGO

Andy Carey, left, Kansas City 3rd baseman and Ken Hamlin, shortstop, collide as they try to catch Tiger Eddie Yost's foul in the 5th inning at Detroit Thursday. Carey has the ball in the web of his glove for the out.

Bees Take Two; Nip Chiefs' Bid

Lincoln Star Special

Burlington, Ia, — Burlington squelched Lincoln's bid for a first-division berth in the Three I League with twin 6-2 victories Thursday night.

The injury-plagued Chiefs took a 3rd blow on the chin when centerfielder Don Buford was spiked in the 3rd inning of the second game while beating out an infield hit that drove in Al Weis for the Chiefs' second tally.

Bufford hobbled through 3 more innings before retiring from the game in the 7th.

In the opener, Burlington's Jack Kelly, who had won only one game in 9 outings, held Lincoln to 5 safeties. His wildness cheated him of a shutout.

Both Lincoln runs came with the aid of a pair of Kelly's free passes.

McFarland scored twice and had a double and triple in 5 times up.

Pair Of Home Runs Ease Yanks To Win

...CERV, BOYER CONNECT FOR NEW YORKERS

Baltimore (AP) — Home runs by Bob Cerv and Cletis Boyer propelled New York to a 6-3 victory over Baltimore Wednesday night, hauling the league-leading Yankees to a sweep of the two-game series.

Cerv, pinch-hitting for Yankee starter Bob Turley, lined his 10th homer of the year into the stands in the 5th with a runner on to put New York back into the game after the Orioles had moved to a 3-0 lead.

Boyer's 6th Clout

Boyer, hitting for the circuit for the second night in a row, tied the score in the 7th with his 6th home run of the year with the sacks empty.

Consecutive singles by Bobby Richardson and pinch-hitter Kent Handley and a sacrifice fly by Tony Kubek following Boyer's blast produced the winning run.

The round-trip blows by Cerv and Boyer raised New York's home run output for the season to 102. The Yankees hold the American League record of 190 homers for a season.

New York bombed Baltimore starter Milt Pappas from the box in the 8th, chasing the righthander with a two-run uprising that ended Pappas' hopes of winning his 5th straight.

Maas Given Win

Duke Maas, who hurled two innings of scoreless relief after taking over in the 5th, was credited with his first victory of the year in his 12th mound appearance.

Bobby Shantz held the Orioles in check over the final 3 frames while allowing just one hit.

Walks by Turley and loose fielding led to the Orioles' early scoring.

Two of Turley's 4 free passes came in the 3rd sandwiched around a single by Gene Stephens.

Gentile Blow Big

With the bases jammed, Jim Gentile singled to push over Baltimore's first run. Gus Triandos produced the second with a sacrifice fly.

A walk and 3 infield errors awarded the Orioles a final run in the 4th, Ronnie Hansen scoring as the Yanks muffed a double play opportunity.

Giants Beaten By 7-3

San Francisco (AP) — St. Louis righthander Larry Jackson Thursday won his 10th game of the season by checking San Francisco 7-3 and dropping the slumping Giants to within a game of the National League's second division.

The Cardinals sent an erratic Sam Jones to the showers in the 3rd inning charged with 5 runs and his 8th setback against 10 triumphs.

Jackson allowed 9 hits while striking out 7 and walking 3 before a crowd of 14,614.

The Cardinals also collected 9 hits but got them in the clutch, Veteran Stan Musial knocking in a trio of the St. Louis runs.

POINT BLANK

Sports Editor, The Star

Wrestling grabbed a piece of the spotlight this week, with the University of Nebraska and the professional variety sharing top billing.

Appointment of Mickey Sparano as head coach of the Cornhusker grapplers should provide a much-needed shot-in-the arm to the lagging NU mat program.

Those of us who recall Mickey when he was a star 136-pounder at Nebraska, will vouch for his competitive fire and desire to succeed

Sparano also has a long list of credentials which indicate he can juice up the Husker grapplers.

The former Big 7 champion posted an almost unbelieveable record at Omaha South—80 victories, one loss and one tie; 5 consecutive state and Intercity titles.

Not to be overlooked, also, is the probability that Mickey will lure some of the Packer wrestlers to Nebraska. Nebraska's wrestling fortunes cannot hope to improve very much without the services of some South grads.

In the past South matmen have fled the state for schools where wrestling offered more opportunities. It is likely that this migration will now be slowed, benefiting NU a great deal.

There's a job to be done with the Nebraska wrestling team—and Mickey Sparano looks like a fine choice. So here's a welcome and a wish for continued success.

Big Year

Professional grappling—where the athletes spice up the program with a variety of pyrotechnics—has good reason to do some self-back-patting these days.

The grunt-and-groan boys enjoyed a banner year at the gate, with much of the credit going to Omaha Promoter Joe Dusek, Lincoln Promoter Jack Pesek and a giant of a fellow who billed himself as Dr. X.

The report of State Athletic Commissioner Manny Segel revealed pro grappler shows attracted more than 300,000 customers last season.

Omaha, of course, led the parade with 177,865 fans for an average of 7,406 per match.

In Lincoln, where Pesek has combined hard work with the comfortable accommodations at Pershing Auditorium, the eye-gougers proved more popular than ever. More than 46,000 fans turned out for 19 shows for an average of almost 2,500 per match.

Pro rough-housing in Lincoln has proven a two-way benefit to the fans. They've gotten a big kick out of the shows, and it's helped pay the freight at Pershing. General Manager Dick Wagner will tell you the grapples have been the biggest Auditorium money-makers outside of the ice shows.

And in answer to numerous mat fans who have called the office: the next Pesek grapple is slated for July 16 at Pershing.

Wise Decision

For once the THREE-I League acted like it had outgrown its "bush" tag when loop directors voted down a split season.

More and more the signs point to the fact that people aren't interested in minor league baseball—at least not enough of them to insure financial stability.

Maybe integrity won't cause the fans to swarm back to the ballparks, but it's a cinch the future of the Three-I would not be helped by resorting to trickery.

And that's what a split season is—telling the customers a bad club is better because it's only 5 games out of first in the second half of the season instead of 15 games out for the entire campaign.

NL Pilot's Snub Seen As A Slap At Dressen

Cincinnati (AP) — Walter Alston's snub of Milwaukee aces Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette in his National League All-Star plans was regarded in some circles Thursday as a slap at Charlie Dressen, his former coach at Los Angeles.

Omission of the Braves' veteran pair was as striking as the inclusion of Stan Musial, grand veteran of St. Louis Cardinals, for the 17th time.

Along with Musial, Alston named a 12-man cast to supplement the starting team selected by the players last week.

The Los Angeles skipper's additions are catchers Ed Bailey of Cincinnati and Smoky Burgess of Pittsburgh; infielders Ken Boyer and Bill White of St. Louis, Dick Groat of Pittsburgh, Norm Larker and Charlie Neal of Los Angeles and Tony Taylor of Philadelphia; and outfielders Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Vada Pinson of Cincinnati.

Tabs 10 Hurlers

Alston tabbed 10 hurlers for the two clashes against the American Leaguers at Kansas City Monday and at New York Wednesday.

Three of the moundsmen Vern Law, Bob Friend and Elroy Face—are members of the Pirates.

Others are Mike McCormick of San Francisco, Larry Jackson and Lindy McDaniel of St. Louis, Bob Buhl of Milwaukee, Bill Henry of Cincinnati and Johnny Podres and Stan Williams of the Dodgers.

Buhl (8-3) owns a better season mark than either Spahn (7-6) or Burdette (8-4) and has been a nemesis to the Dodgers this year.

First In 5 Years

It's the first time in 5 years and only the second in the last 11 that Spahn has failed to make the team.

After succeeding Fred Haney as Milwaukee pilot last winter, Dressen had said he would outline a pitching program for Spahn and Burdette that would increase their effectiveness.

Another surprise omission is that of Sam Jones, ace of the Giant staff. Jones (10-7) was ignored in favor of McCormick (9-5).

Alston said his selection of Musial was based partly on sentiment and partly on the Cardinal star's recent resurgence at bat.

'Handy To Have'

"Sure sentiment entered into it," Alston said, "But Musial certainly is the kind of a man I'd like to have around if a situation develops where a big hit could win the game. He is hitting again."

If Musial sees action in both games he will have appeared in 19. Next to Musial in All-Star service is Ted Williams of Boston.

The NL's starting squad includes Joe Adcock, first base; Bill Mazeroski, second; Eddie Mathews, 3rd; Ernie Banks, short; Del Crandall, catcher; and Willie Mays, Henry Aaron and Bob Skinner, outfielders.

Pierce Handcuffs Indians As Chisox Complete Sweep

Cleveland (AP) — Southpaw Billy Pierce pitched Chicago's White Sox to a 9-3 victory over Cleveland Thursday night while giving the Sox a sweep of a two-game series.

The two clubs now move to Chicago for a 4-game set ending with a doubleheader Sunday.

Freese, Smith Homer

Pierce was backed by home runs off the bats of Gene Freese and Al Smith, Freese's emanating with two men on base as feature of a 5-run rally.

The victory was the 7th against 4 losses for the 33-year-old left-hander, 4 of his triumphs having come over the Indians.

Jim Perry, first of a trio of Cleveland pitchers, was the loser. Perry has a lone victory against the White Sox.

The 24-year-old righthander was followed by Barry Latman and Wynn Hawkins.

Yields 7 Blows

Pierce yielded 7 blows, struck out 3 and walked two while touring the distance.

The Chisox counted 7 runs off Perry, who lasted only 3 innings.

They tallied a pair in the second inning on two singles, a double and an infield out and added 5 more in the 3rd.

Pierce set the Indians down in order over the first 3 innings. The tribe managed a run in the 4th on singles by John Temple, Ken Aspromonte and Vic Power.

Skinner Paces Pirates Again

Cincinnati (AP) — Bob Skinner's two-run double in the top of the 9th capped another Pittsburgh late-inning rally for a 3-2 Pirate victory over Cincinnati Thursday night.

Skinner had swatted an inside-the-park grand slam homer for another Buc victory only the night before.

There were two down in the 9th when the Buccos busted loose for their game-winning rally.

Bill Mazeroski, who also belted two doubles, singled and went to 3rd on Smoky Burgess' pinch-hit single.

Mazeroski and pinch runner Joe Christopher then romped home on the double.

Wilmer Mizell, allowing only 5 hits, got credit for the win.

The defeat was tagged on Bill Henry, second of 3 Red pitchers in the 9th.

The Pirates got their only other run during a weird 5th inning in which they tallied only once despite a single, double, two walks, a wild pitch and a passed ball.

The walks, wild pitch and passed ball came after the run had scored.

MUFFETT'S 4-HIT JOB NIPS NATS

Boston (AP)—Bill Muffett made a desperation gamble pay off while hurling Boston's Red Sox to a 4-hit 4-2 victory over Washington in the bottom of a twi-night doubleheader Thursday night.

The Senators bagged the opener 6-5 on a passed ball, Billy Gardner's triple and clutch 9th inning relief by Hal Woodeshick.

Muffett, a 28-year old righthander rejected by San Francisco's Giants and a bust as a Red Sox reliefer, was given his chance as a starter and responded by retiring 18 of the last 19 batters.

Washington didn't get a walk off the 195 pounder, although Jim Lemon reached in the 9th when hit by a pitch.

Rocky Is Too Busy For A Ring Return

New York (AP) — Rocky Marciano still leaves the door to a ring comeback ajar, but the chances of his edging his way through it are becoming slimmer and slimmer.

The undefeated and retired heavyweight champion has two new projects to keep him occupied.

One of them promises a steady income and the other a gamble on a big return on no investment except his time.

Marciano indicated Thursday he'll be the commentator on a television show this fall showing films of the greatest fights in Madison Square Garden over the past 15 years.

Start In October

There will be 39 half-hour shows starting in October, with Rocky himself appearing in 8 of them. Fighters involved will be paid for rerun of the films.

Marciano is part owner of the production and will have a name personality as guest on each program.

His other current interest is a young Pennsylvania farmer who wants to be a fighter.

"His name is Ray Hackencheck, and he's from Portland, Pa.," Marciano says.

Overwhelms Opposition

"He's only had 3 amateur fights and overwhelmed his opposition.

"He's the strongest fellow I ever saw. Breaks two-by-4's with his bare hands.

"He's about 6 feet tall and weights 200 and has determination. I'm getting Charley Goldman — my old trainer — to work with him, and we'll see how he develops."

The burly former champion — he guesses he weighs about 220 now — insists he's never closed the door to a comeback but that it would take a lot of contemplation.

'Never Can Tell'

"I can't say I won't try a comeback," he says frankly, "As you never can tell. But right now I'm not considering it."

Rocky has had numerous business ventures and admits one turned out really sour.

"I know what they said," he explained. "They said, that's like the old fighters losing all their money in some business deal they know nothing about. That hurts.

"But it was a sound deal, growing potatoes down in Florida.

'Had Bad Winter'

"They'd always had good crops. But the year I went into it — it was 1958 — they had a bad winter, cold and rain.

"We lost a lot of money. It cose me $50,000. But it wasn't poor judgment."

Marciano plans to keep his residence at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. but expects to spend about 5 months of the year in the North.

"I'm thinking of buying a little resort hotel in New Jersey" he said.

"I'd like eventually to get some big fighters there to train."

SNIDER SPREE FATAL TO CHICAGOANS, 8-1

Los Angeles (AP) — Duke Snider drove across two runs with a lost-ball triple and another with his first homer off a lefthander in nearly 4 years as Los Angeles belted Chicago 7-1 Thursday night.

Don Drysdale, recently mired in the throes of a 5 game losing streak, won his second in a row while checking the Cubs on 8 base blows.

Ernie Banks, Chicago's great shortstop, was hit by one of Drysdale's pitches in the 5th inning and had to leave the game.

He suffered a severe bruise on the upper part of his left arm, but it was not known whether the injury was serious enough to break his string of consecutive games played at 572.

Drysdale has often been accused before of throwing at hitters, but Banks said he was sure the big righthander didn't hit him intentionally.

Snider picked up his first two RBIs in the opening inning, scoring Norm Larker and Frank Howard on a high fly that was lost in the twilight by Richie Ashburn and rookie Danny Murphy.

George Altman swatted his sixth homer, his 3rd in his last 3 times at bat, off Drysdale in the second.

The Dodgers, however, shot ahead at 6-1 in the 4th when they counted 3 runs on two walks and doubles by Jim Gilliam and Larker.

Favorite, Middie Win Scull Trials

Syracuse, N.Y. (AP)—Favored Harry Parker, 1959 Pan American champion, and Navy great Wayne Frye easily copped qualifying heats in the single sculls at the Olympic rowing trials Thursday.

The 3 days of trials to pick the United States' entries in seven rowing classes for the world games opened in bright sunshine on a nearly calm Onondaga Lake.

Parker, a Lieutenant Junior Grade in the Navy, represents the Vespers of Philadelphia. Frye rowed for the famed Navy 8 that won the 1952 Olympics.

Their victories highlighted a busy morning of preliminaries in single sculls, pairs without coxwains and 4s with coxwains. Glamor eight-oar crews began their heats in the afternoon.

REED ELIMINATED

Cincinnati, (AP)—Miguel Olvera of Guayaquil, Ecuador, Thursday ousted defending champion Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., from the men's singles at the 61st annual Tri-State tennis tournament.

The lightly regarded Olvera went 3 sets to eliminate second-seeded Reed, 1-6, 6-1, 10-8.

ROMANS STRIKE

Rome (AP)—Rome's municipal tramway and bus employes struck for two hours Thursday to back up their demand for a special Olympic bonus.

The transport workers are asking a $40 bonus for the extra work expected during the Olympic Games starting Aug. 25.

Spahn Master Of Old As Braves Trim Foes

...WARREN LIMITS PHILS TO 5 SINGLES

Milwaukee (AP) — Veteran Warren Spahn turned in magnificent pitching while limiting Philadelphia to 5 singles and striking out 10 as Milwaukee's Braves blanked the Phils 2-0 Thursday night.

The 39-year-old lefthander was seldom in trouble while holding the Phils hitless in all but the first, 8 and 9 innings.

Hank Aaron drove in both Milwaukee runs, his sacrifice fly in the first scoring the first run and his 23rd homer of the season bringing in the other tally in the 6th.

Chris Short lifted for a pinch-hitter in the 8th, was the loser and is now 4-5.

Spahn, posting the 48th shutout of his career, experienced some trouble in the 9th when Bobby Del Greco and Lee Walls singled with none out.

Tony Taylor flied out but Pancho Herrera walked to fill the bases.

Spahn then induced Bob Smith to hit into a double play to end the game.

Spahn struck out 5 in the first two innings, fanning the side in the first.

The Braves got their first inning run when Billy Bruton doubled, went to 3rd on Del Crandall's single and scored on Aaron's long fly to left-center.

Bally Ache Enters Washington Show

Laurel, Md. (AP)—Bally Ache, the "Million Dollar Colt," Thursday became the first entry in the 9th running of the $100,000 Washington, D.C. International slated for Nov. 11.

Joseph L. Arnold of Versailles, Ky., accepted an invitation to the mile-and-a-half grass race in behalf of his syndicate, which bought Bally Ache for $1,250,000 the week the horse won The Preakness at Pimlico.

Bally Ache was second in the Kentucky Derby and was scratched from the Belmont, last leg of the Triple Crown, because of swelling on a front ankle.

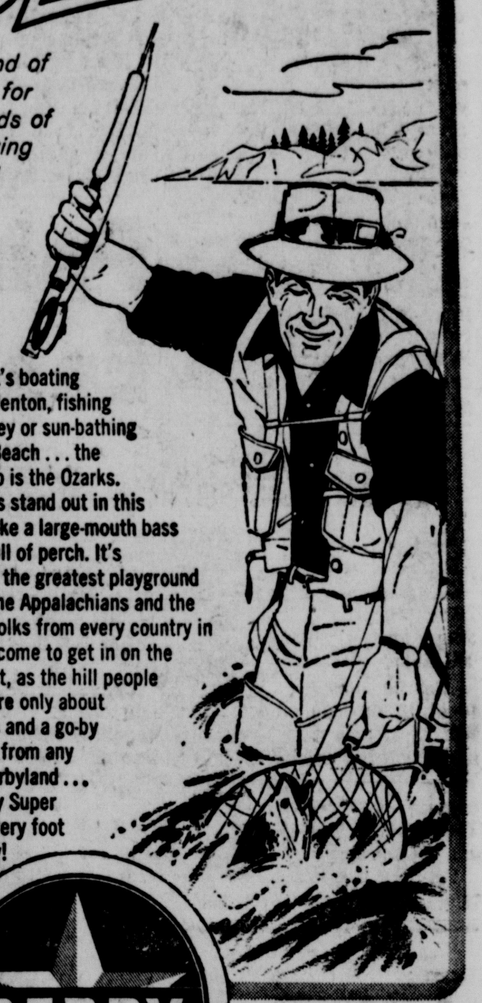

The injury was not considered serious and Bally Ache is expected to start in the Arlington Classic July 23.

In addition to the Preakness the 3-year-old colt has won The Flamingo, Florida Derby and Jersey Derby and earned $742,522 this year.

Althought he's never raced on the grass, Arnold believes Bally Ache will race better there than on dirt.

Among other United States thoroughbreds being considered for invitations to the International are Bald Eagle, last year's winner; Sword Dancer, First Landing, Celtic Ash, Venetian Way, Talent Show and Amerigo.

Spectacular Races Top Scull Trials

Syracuse, N.Y. (AP) — California, Navy's varsity and the Syracuse Alumni Rowing Assn. Thursday copped qualifying heats in 3 spectacular 8-oared races at the Olympic rowing trials on Onandaca Lake.

The big 8s climaxed the first day of a 3-day program with rousing finishes eliciting cheers from a couple of thousand spectators.

With the first two in each of the 3 heats qualifying for today's semifinals, California nipped Cornell's "A" (varsity) shell by 15 feet."

Navy's "A" (varsity) entry edged Cornell's "B" (junior varsity) by 7 feet, and Syracuse beat Navy's previously unbeaten plebes by a half-length.

Thus Navy and Cornell each placed two crews into the 8-oared semifinals.

Third and 4th place crews in each of the heats will meet in two repechage (second chance for first heat losers) heats with the winners in each of the morning heats gaining the semifinals.

LARSEN FAILS AGAIN AS A'S BEATEN, 6-3

Detroit (AP)—Kansas City's Don Larsen failed for the 8th straight time while walking Detroit's Tigers to a 5-0 lead Thursday as the Bengels downed K.C. 6-3.

Larsen, of World Series perfect-game fame, walked 7 in less than 3 innings.

He survived minor trouble in the first two innings but was routed by Detroit's 5-run burst in the 3rd inning.

Don Mossi went all the way for Detroit, scattering 10 hits and picking up his 6th victory against a like number of losses.

Larsen opened the 3rd by walking Frank Bolling. Charlie Maxwell then tripled Bolling across, and Larsen yielded 3 more walks before Bob Trowbridge came on.

Trowbridge issued a bases-loaded walk to Mossi and a two-run broken-bat single to Eddie Yost before getting out of the inning.

The Athletics dented Mossi for a pair of runs in the 5th. Singles by Pete Daly, Lou Klimchock, Bill Tuttle and Hank Bauer.

Bauer's 3rd home run in the 8th inning accounted for the other Kansas City run.

Nine Dandies Run For 100 Grand

Inglewood, Calif. (AP) — A field of 9 dandy 3-year-olds headed by New Policy, T. V. Lark and First Balcony, shape up for Saturday's $100,000-added Hollywood Derby.

It's the richest race of the meeting for sophomores and will settle the 3-year-old championship of the West.

The Derby got two more certain starters Thursday in Top Caliber and the dangerous Tempestuous.

Tempestuous, claimed just two races before for $15,000, had a few long shot railbirds yelling and stomping when he finished second to Ralph Lowe's New Policy in the recent Cinema Handicap.

Others in the mile and quarter run are Henrijan, Nagea, Prince Blessed, and Blank Check.

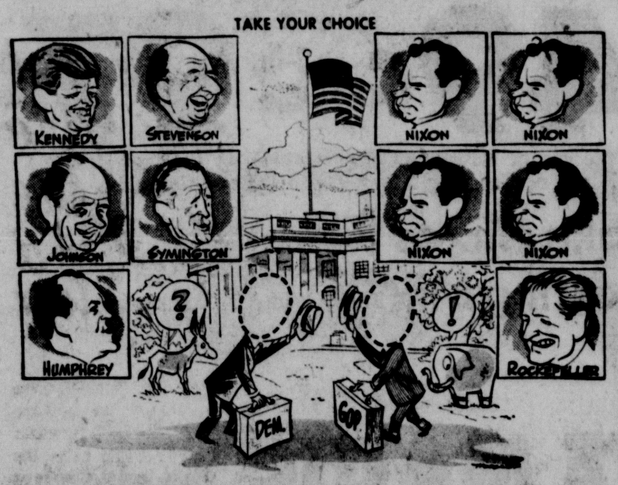

Top Caliber worked out Thursday morning, sprinting 7 furlongs in a snappy 1:26 1-5.

The only other probable starter working Thursday was Mr. and Mrs. Steve Elmore's Henrijan, who stepped off 5 furlongs in 58 4-5.

New policy rules the horse to beat in the Hollywood Derby. He had a reputation as strictly a sprinter before his wire-to-wire victory in the Cinema over many of the 3-year-olds he'll meet again Saturday.

In the Cinema, New Policy galloped the mile and an 8th in a startling 1:46 3-5, just a tick off the world record.

. . . KEARNEY BOYS UNDER NEW HELPING HAND

By Don Walton

Kearney — Fresh ideas and new emphasis are producing changes on a sloping hill in the lush Platte River valley just west of here.

Atop the hill live 236 boys, various supervisory personnel and one new man.

The man is William Ettinger.

A smiling — yet serious — man of ideas and no little faith in children and young adults, Ettinger is the new superintendent of the Boys Training School.

The new superintendent of the Kearney Boys' Training School ponders changes in the institution's program. (Star Staff Photo)

He's been at his new job just a month now.

'Change Is Theme'

Change has been the dominant theme since he arrived in the midst of a growing furor over the firing of Nolan Ellandson as superintendent and ensuing squabbling among members of the Board of Control.

Among the alterations:

—greater emphasis on athletics, spurred by the purchase of $1,000 worth of intramural equipment.

—more responsibility given to counselors in an effort to aid them with disciplinary problems.

—a concentrated move to provide the boys with new goals and new interests.

—installation of a new mock radio station, wherein each cottage records its own show for lunchroom entertainment.

Even More Changes

Ettinger has even more long-range changes in mind:

—greater schooling emphasis on vocational training, including electronics, auto mechanics and other technical areas.

—instruction in family relationships, sex (under a medical doctor) and marriage.

—budgeting and finance instruction.

—more segregation of those who need discipline from those who evidence proper behavior.

—less emphasis on agriculture because it now provides "little opportunity" for the young man.

—an accelerated visitor program whereby relatives and tourists are welcome.

—more evening activities (the boys now go to bed at 9 p.m.)

—an ever-increasing athletic program.

There has been but one escape since Ettinger assumed his new post. June and July are usually the peak period for runaways.

Only 113 of the boys are now in residence at the school.

Some 123 of them are now at home on a week's furlough earned through proper behavior They return to Kearney Saturday.

Discusses Problems

Ettinger visits one of the school's dormitory-type cottages (which contains about 45 boys) each evening to discuss problems with his wards.

"Most of the boys are not as bad as they seem," the superintendent pointed out.

"They've not known what authority is. They are the result of over-indulgent and neglectful parents, mostly the latter."

Boys at the school range in age from 9 to 20.

Average age is about 16.

Next: A day at Kearney; and why did Ettinger take the job?

HIGHWAY DEPT. CAN ARBITRATE LOCATION OF PRIMARY ROADS

If there is disagreement between a county board and petitioners over location of primary roads, the State Department of Roads can step in and act as an arbiter, the Attorney General said in an opinion Thursday.

This statute provision "is not intended to be a device for the department to 'impose its will' upon the county board, but is intended to put into the hands of a presumably impartial third party the final decision," the opinion said.

The opinion recognized the power and authority of a county board in establishing, improving, maintaining and abandoning county public roads.

If agreement is reached between the county board and petitioners then the roads with changes are the primary roads. But if there is disagreement, then the map and all petitions and plats are to be forwarded to the department of roads for examination and designation.

The opinion said a county board cannot designate a section line, not established as a county road, as a primary road, without first establishing it as a county road.

Under present law each county board must have selected and designated within six months of Jan. 1, 1958, the roads which constitute the county primary road system. The Attorney General said it apparently was the intention of the Legislature that county boards should again designate their primary road systems, even if the boards did so under a similar law in 1954.

The opinion was written in response to a request from Wheeler County Atty. Arthur O. Auserod, Bartlett.

Cheyenne Atlas Site Officials Clash On Delays

Cheyenne, Wyo. (UPI) — Atlas missile base contractors and officials of the George A. Fuller Company disagreed in part Thursday over the major cause of delays in completion of the Cheyenne area launching sites.

The contractor estimated that labor disputes have caused about 5 months delay, but the company official, who asked that his name not be used, said the labor stoppages were only a part of the problem.

The Fuller firm was prime contractor for Site A, one of 4 major sites, completed about Nov. 1, 1959.

The official said, "The missiles are so relatively new that some launching pad and building designs are not current."

He said the bases are being built under a crash program while changes are still being made in the Atlas.

Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates ordered the Air Force to prepare a report this week concerning rumors that missile bases, including Warren Air Force Base and those sites around Offutt Air Force Base, are months behind construction schedules.

Falls City School Budget Increases

Falls City (AP)—A budget of $401,702 has been adopted by the local school district, an increase of $41,702 over the past year.

of the increase, $34,953 will go into a cash reserve.

Principals' and teachers' salaries, textbooks and teaching supplies account for $249,300 of the total. It is estimated that the general levy will be 36 mills, up 3 mills over the current year.

Mother Fined For Contributing To Children's Neglect

Mrs. Patricia Curry of 2745 Garfield was fined $25 Thursday by County Judge Herbert A. Ronin on a charge of contributing to the neglect of her 4 children.

Mrs. Curry, 34, appealed to District Court. Judge Ronin accepted her personal recognizance in lieu of $200 bond at the recommendation of the county attorney's office.

Mrs. Curry, a divorcee, was charged in connection with beatings which her boy friend, Svend Langsem, 40, of 2642 A, allegedly administered to her children, ages 8 to 13, on Apr. 21. Langsem was found guilty of assault and battery and also fined $25 by Judge Ronin, but he also has appealed to District Court.

Omaha Worker Injured In Fall; Saved By Wire

Omaha (AP)—A construction worker on an over-the-street parking facility in downtown Omaha plunged 12 to 15 feet Thursday afternoon but was saved by safety wire strung beneath the project.

The man, 47-year-old Leo Flott, hung there until firemen rescued him.

He was taken to Douglas County Hospntal where the initial report on his condition was "satisfactory."

The parking structure is being built at 17th and Douglas streets adjoining Brandies Store.

NEW A-LAMP EXCELS SUN

New York (AP)—A new atomic lamp that generates a light brighter than the center of the sun was reported Thursday.

Instead of spreading out in all directions like ordinary light, this light sends out paralell beams that drift apart only 200 feet in 1,000 miles, scientists said.

The atomic ruby at its heart has been dubbed a "laser" by scientists who developed it for Hughes Aircraft Co., Culver City, Calif. They claimed:

It could fire an inch-wide beam of light the distance from Los Angeles to San Francisco without spreading more than 100 feet.

Soviet Virgin Land Plan Meets With Opposition

By William L. Ryan
Associated Press News Analyst

The movie screen in Moscow depicts old soldiers as deliriously happy about the prospect of fading away.

A documentary shows a general, several lesser officers and men from the ranks, first fighting in Berlin, then 15 years later in civilian clothing, happily kissing one another.

They have been demobilized. Many will go to farms and factories in remote areas Nikita Khrushchev wants to develop in a hurry. His success with the old soldiers and their civilian compatriots in the so-called virgin lands may determine Khrushchev's future.

The documentaries show officers, soldiers and civilians all enthusiastic for the tasks ahead. It is Khrushchev's propaganda to break down real-life resistance to the idea of pioneering new areas.

Demobilized

Khrushchev has demobilized about 250,000 officers from the top-heavy armed forces. From them he hopes to select men to supply leadership in remote and often forbidding areas far from Moscow. He wants to use young demobilized soldiers, now being shipped out in trainloads, as "model workers" for newly opened areas. He wants other young Russians to supply the brains and brawn to transform a wilderness.

Western observers in Moscow report a marked lack of enthusiasm for leaving the comforts of the privileged officer class to pioneer a wilderness.

Even Khrushchev has admitted that the pioneering spirit fades when the men see what they are up against.

He complained recently: "Tens of thousands of young people go to the virgin lands singing . . . with enthusiasm . . . . but when they sort things out they begin justly to criticize."

Appalled

That was putting it mildly. The pioneers are appalled at the barracks life offered them, the lack of privacy, the impossibility of normal family life, the lack of sufficient goods and provisions, the dearth of diversions, the drudgery and dreadful dullness day after day. Some live in barracks-like quarters. Some in trailers, tents—even dugouts. The government tries to induce girls to go to the undeveloped areas, but few respond.

Westerners in Moscow who have traveled in virgin lands areas report deep resentment among the "volunteers." There have been instances of labor trouble — even a strike — arising from the living conditions. Often, young city people regard such assignments as punishment.

Khrushchev has fired some high Communist figures for failure in the program. He hopes to ease the desperate problems of housing and storage facilities in the area within two years.

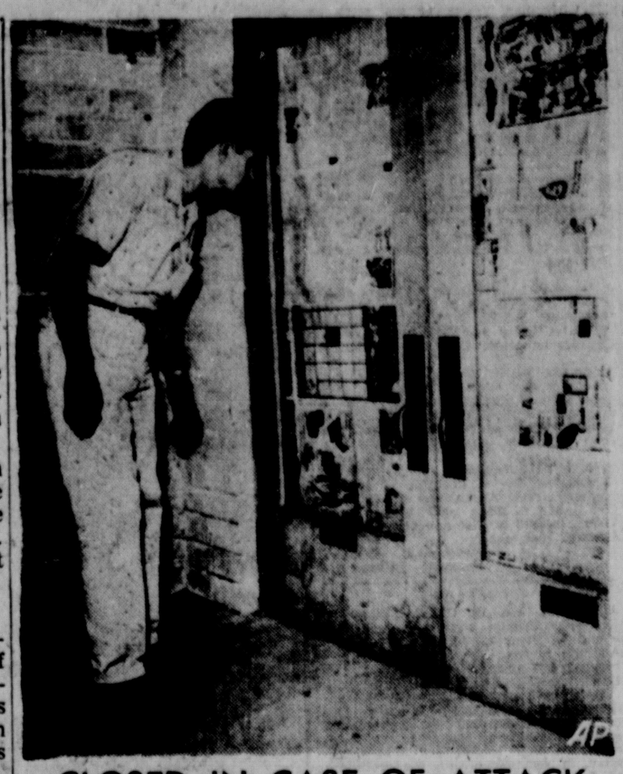

But, say Westerners in Moscow, two years could be costly. Few of those in the areas are bona fide settlers. For the rest, disillusionment comes swiftly.

Important

The virgin lands program is an important part of Khrushchev's over-all agricultural plan. And he has other worries. In the Kazakh Republic last year millions of acres of grain were lost, mostly because of blundering and mismanagement. Khrushchev punished those responsible and ordered more virgin lands put to the plow to make up for the losses.

Khrushchev promised that 1960 would be an agricultural year ranking with the best. He may be whistling in the dark. In many areas, such as the Caucasus, farms have been suffering for lack of rain. In many, winter persisted two weeks beyond normal, delaying planting.

A persistent problem is lack of sufficient fodder to maintain livestock in drought seasons. Another is lack of sufficient shelter in winter. Drought in fall and threat of freezing in winter require slaughter of many cattle to prevent total loss. Then meat appears in abundance at lowered prices in the city markets.

CLOSED IN CASE OF ATTACK

Benson, Ariz., Full Gospel Church is papered shut while it's 90 members remain barricaded in their tightly sealed homes fearing the destruction of civilization by atomic attack.

Food Bill Problem For Scared Religious Sect

Benson, Ariz. (UPI)—Complications, in the form of an $11,000 food bill from a Tucson wholesale grocery firm, set in Thursday for members of the Full Gospel Assembly holed up here in cellars and shelters in fear of a Russian nuclear attack by Saturday.

The Tucson firm said the sect owes the $11,000 for food and the firm signed a complaint.

Cochise County Attorney Lloyd Helm and Sheriff Charlie Stewart served the papers on two members of the Assembly. The suit was filed by Southwest Wholesale Grocers Supply in Tucson.

The firm said it accepted a post-dated check for the $11,000 but the bank refused to honor it.

The two members of the sect served by the Sheriff are Charles Williams and Glen Scott.

"Oh, we've got the money," the two told the Sheriff. "But they'll have to wait in Tucson."

They insist they haven't been able to get to the bank to deposit the funds covering the check because they've been hiding in their bomb shelters since the Fourth of July.

The estimated 100 men, women and children hiding in the shelters plan to stay there until Sunday. If the Russians haven't bombed U. S. cities by midnight Saturday, the sect believes it will be safe to come out.

Arraigned On Sodomy Charges

Reginald F. Crees of 2835 U pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) and Duane E. Ostrander of Rt. 7 pleaded guilty to sodomy charges Thursday in Lancaster District Court.

Judge John Polk committed both men to jail pending a pre-sentence investigation.

Cress, 53, and Ostrander, 21, were arrested by police Wednesday night at Antelope Park, and were charged with having unnatural sexual relations with each other.

Douglas, Warner Speak At Young GOP Coffee Hour

Candidates Jerome Warner and Paul Douglas spoke Thursday to nearly 50 ladies at a membership coffee hour initiated by Mrs. Marilyn Hasselbalch.

Mrs. Hasselbalch is co-chairman of the Lancaster County Young Republicans.

Warner is a candidate for the 18th District seat in the Legislature. Douglas is Republican nominee for county attorney.

Marvin E. Stromer, a candidate for the 19th District seat in the Legislature, was unable to attend the meeting.

Meanwhile, plans were discussed for an outing July 16 at the farm home of Jack Schuetz, executive secretary of the GOP state central committee.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY

Government Aid Rarely Constitutes 'Free Money'

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

In the coming competition for votes in this presidential year, there is a strong temptation to curry favor by publicizing proposed benefits while concealing the offsetting costs.

So that nobody is misled, a few fundamental facts should be kept in mind.

To begin with, the government can't give anything to anybody without first taking it away from someone else.

In a private enterprise economy, the production of wealth is largely in the hands of citizens and aggregates of individuals (corporations and firms).

To the extent that government (national, state and local), necessarily seeks ways and means for paying for the legitimate governmental functions, such as national defense and education, it automatically reduces the "take-home pay" of the taxpayer. The taxpayer's didposal income is, of course, what remains after meeting tax liabilities.

In the scramble for new and highly productive sources of revenues, such as the income and inheritance taxes, and because the federal government pre-empted them, there has developed a change in our form of government. The fiscal picture has lent itself to a concentration of functions at the nation's capital, and the dangerous concept of "federal aid" has grown.

Rukeyser

On certain housing schemes, for example, "federal aid" puts up as much as three-fourths of the cost, with municipalities lured by the seeming windfall to put up the remaining forth.

The set-up makes for public extravagance in that "federal aid" and, in some commonwealths similar "state aid", are regarded as virtual "free money". The truth is that the federal treasury is not only an empty purse save what is contributed in revenues by taxpayers in a given local community and elsewhere but, in addition, the federal government owes investors in direct indebtedness some $290 billion.

No one who has read history fails to recognize the emotional appeal of "bread and circuses."

But the citizen is a sucker if he assumes that economic activities financed by government are a free gift.

In a constitutional system such as ours, there are necessary and desirable activities for government, including road building, national defense, education, health and various social services. But, as the system moves in the direction of what some call a "mixed economy," government takes a larger share of the total wealth produced, and substitutes bureaucratic judgment for the free choice of individual citizens.

In the nature of things, an expanding and overreaching government accordingly tends to narrow the area of discretion of the individual citizens.

Little commissars in big jobs in the dictatorships go to the "nth" degree and glorify government, while making stooges of individual citizens.

At a time when the cold war necessarily imposes abnormally heavy expenses on the federal government, there is special need for selectivity and for putting priorities on the indispensable functions of government. In the circumstances, certain postponable and debatable activities may have to wait.

Fiscally, the facts of life would become clearer if a reallocation of sources of modern revenue were undertaken.

Under the Constitution, it would be legally feasible to work out a compact agreement between the federal government and the several states, whereby a single collecting agency could collect the highly productive taxes, such as the income and inheritance taxes, and distribute the proceeds in accordance with an agreed formula to the federal government, the states and the localities, including the school districts.

This is different from the recent agitation in New York for a special addition to the state injome tax for educational purposes.

If education and national defense are to receive a greater ratio of the revenue dollar than in the past, then it behooves those in government in other expenditures. This is an alternative to soaking the taxpayer.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self-addressed envelopes should be sent in care of this newspaper. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column).

NU Vegetable Study Funds Are Available

The Small Business Administration has awarded the University of Nebraska a grant of $18,152 to study vegetable processing and distribution in Nebraska.

The grant was approved by the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.

Dr. Clarence J. Miller, associate professor of agricultural economics at the University, will be in charge of the study which will be conducted in cooperation with the Department of Horticulture and Forestry.

Dr. Miller says firms processing fruits and vegetables in Nebraska have had an indifferent record of success for years. This appears to be an opportune time to study the success factors which are most important in vegetable processing and handling, he said.

"In the past, Nebraska has had a number of small business enterprises engaged in producing, processing and selling vegetables," Dr. Miller points out. "Some of these firms have, after a period of life, gone out of business or have been absorbed by other firms."

"Lack of success in the past has been attributed to such factors as distance to major markets, inadequate access to resources such as labor and capital, erratic weather resulting in unstable production, and changing technology."

"As the environment for production and processing of vegetables has, in recent years, become more favorable in Nebraska, there may be an opportunity for this type of industry in the state. Before such an industry can be successful, there appears to be a need to survey managerial problems connected with vegetable processing."

Aspirin Sales Grow

New York (UPI) — Consumption of aspirin is increasing at a rate more than double that of the nation's population growth. Drug sources estimate the typical person takes one every 3 days, compared with one every 8 days in 1935.

102% Hike In College Gifts

Omaha (AP) — The Nebraska Independent College Foundation said that it received $132,874.61 in contributions in the fiscal year ended June 30. There were 143 contributors.

This was 102% over the previous year.

The fund was split thusly:

Dana $15,197.83.
Doane $16,469.32.
Duschesne $13,914.01.
Hastings $21,435.55.

Nebraska Wesleyan $24,075.36.
Union College $20,098.94.
College of St. Mary, Omaha, $2,061.61.

Operating fund $1,500.

Stocks Make Wide Gains

New York (AP) — The stock market snapped out of the doldrums Thursday, making a smart recovery and the widest gain in a month.

An estimated $2,300,000,000 was added to quoted values of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the rise in the Associated Press average.

Many of the electronics, vending machine and recreational issues which were clipped by sharp profit taking this week rebounded.

Institutional buying brought gains to many of the "defensive" issues among the utilities, goods and tobaccos. Several utilities advanced more than a point each and the utility average went to a new high for 1960.

Steels, motors, rails, chemicals, airlines and farm implements were among the gainers.

Brokers said the ability of the over-all market to resist strong selling pressure on recent wide gainers among "growth" issues, bolstered confidence.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.52 to 644.89.

The AP 60-stock average rose 1.70 to 223.30 with the industrials up 2.60, the rails up .40 and the utilities up .90 to their 1960 high. This was the best gain for the 60-stock average since June 8 when it advanced 2.20.

Volume rose to 3,050,000 shares from Wednesday's 2,970,000.

In another broad market of 1,232 issues traded, 643 advanced and 378 declined. New Highs for the year totaled 55 and new lows 26.

Renewed trading confidence was reflected by the fact that 12 of the 15 most active stocks advanced while only three declined.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregular. Volume was 1,460,000 shares compared with 1,380,000 Wednesday.

Corporate bonds edged ahead with volume falling off. U.S. Government's declined, ending a three-day advance. Trading was slow.

Volume continued to slide, falling to $5,130,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $5,220,000 Wednesday.

With prices steady to 25 cents lower for the 7,000 head offered, buyers took the 190-220 lb. mixed No. 1 and 2 grades at $17.25-17.75. Heavier weights of all grades in mixed lots were $16-17.50. Sows topped at $16.

The small supply of slaughter steers cleared in a fairly active trade at prices steady to 25 cents higher. The prime grade was absent and the choice grade, including some high choice, sold at $25.75-27.25, mixed good and choice up to $25.50 and good up to $24.50.

Trade was active for spring slaughter lambs which sold at $20-22.50 for good to prime grades with the market steady to strong. Ew

Salvagers Look For Lost Blimp

Lakehurst, N. J. (AP) — A small task force salvage vessels converged Thursday on the spot 15 miles at sea where a hugh navy blimp crashed and sank in 55 feet of water.

The airship, 403 feet long, was the largest in the Navy, twice the size of the models which patroled the coasts and did convoy escort duty during World War II.

She was cruising at 300 feet during a search for a missing yacht Wednesday when she buckled and dropped nose down into the water. The 90-foot high envelope, a huge bag of helium gas, lay on top of the gondola like a sausage and then deflated.

Twenty-one men were aboard. One was killed, 3 were rescued and 17 were still missing Thursday. The salvage vessels expected to find some, perhaps most, still trapped in the gondola.

Capt. F. N. Klein Jr., commander of fleet airship wing one, is in charge of one of the boards of investigation set up to find out what happened. He said a preliminary investigation based on eyewitness reports indicated a failure in the helium-filled envelope may have caused a loss of pressure.

Churchill Silently Honors Fallen Foe

London (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill, in silence, paid most eloquent tribute Thursday to an old and sharp-tongued foe.

In other, more vigorous days, he and Aneurin Bevan had faced each other across the well of the House of Commons to hurl words at each other as though they were knives.

As perhaps the only Briton alive who could best the fiery Welshman in the arts of debate and oratory, Churchill chose silence to pay respect to his arch-foe lying dead. Others spoke for him, both Conservative and Socialist.

At Bevan's funeral in Tredegar, Wales, Friday there will be no prayers, no hymns and no minister, a longtime friend said.

Beethoven

The friend, Archie Lush, said the only music at the service will be Bevan's favorite — Beethoven's Sixth Symphony. Lush said the body will be cremated and the ashes interred at the cemetery where his parents and sister are buried.

The House of Commons met, members in black ties and somber mood, to praise the memory of the 62-year-old Bevan as his wife, Jennie Lee, herself a stormy political petrel, made plans to return her husband's body to the Ebbw Valley of Wales from which he came, one of a coal-mining family of 13.

Harold Macmillan, the Prime Minister, spoke. Bevan once called the Conservative party "vermin." He accused Macmillan of having a "squint" in his soul.

"Though he sometimes spoke violently he was never dull. He was sometimes harsh but never trite." Macmillan's words were soft and friendly. Bevan himself would have scoffed at them.

Change

Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell, with whom Bevan had wrestled for leadership of the party and lost, spoke of a "peculiar change, a certain coldness and grayness that has come here" on Bean's death.

But none of these words seemed to measure the man as much as did the presence of Winston Churchill, 85 now and feeble.

As Macmillan was speaking, the eyes of members swung to the door. There stood Churchill, whose age and infirmities keep him from visiting but rarely the House he calls home.

He walked slowly in and seated himself in the front bench seat from which he once had risen to hurl thunderbolts.

It was here that he once accused Bevan of being "a merchant of discourtesy."

"I would rather be a merchant of discourtesy than be a wholesaler of disaster," was Bevan's retort.

Early in the war Churchill called Bevan a "squalid nuisance," after Bevan chided that "you fight the war like a debate. You win debate after debate and lose battle after battle."

Once Bevan called Churchill a "piece of political cheese."

Head Bowed

Churchill sat like a mourner through Gaitskell's eulogy his head bowed.

Occasionally he dabbed at his eyes with a handkerchief.

As the oratory ended, there was silence in the House, as though Churchill were being waited on to speak but still he said nothing.

In the silence, Churchill rose and walked from the chamber. At the door he turned and looked at Bevan's empty seat before going slowly out the door.

Dean Beggs Says Students' Potential Like An Iceberg

Dean Walter K. Beggs of the University of Nebraska Teachers College told Nebraska teachers that a student's potential is somewhat anlogous to an iceberg.

"What's below the subsurface is usually greater than what appears to the observer," he said at the All-Teachers College Conference Thursday.

The educator said that many persons go through life with the subsurface potential never coming to light.

Another factor which blocks good creative teaching is that often the teacher and the learner both refuse to recognize the potential after it appears, he said. "In many cases, they don't like what they see."

"In the beginning, he explained, the youngster thinks he is what his parents think he is. All through his life, his concept of himself is what other people think of him."

'Battlefield Here In Next War' Says Air Base Official

Col. Frederick Marsh of the Lincoln Air Force Base told members of the Lincoln Optimist Club at a noon luncheon Thursday that "in the next war the entire United States will be a battlefield."

"Man must come to his senses and insist on disarmament and inspection but until then we must be prepared," he said.

Speaking on the topic "The Missile Weapon system at the LAFB", Col. Marsh explained the operation of missile bases and how they are constructed.

Marsh said that a missile site near Lincoln does make Lincoln a more strategic target but added "we must have defense".

"There is no danger of a miss-fire with the missiles," he concluded
